RED MENACE GROWING

Allies Resigned to Indochina Defeat; Can't Agree on Policy

How close is the free world to losing out in Southeast Asia? A week of frantic diplomacy in Washington produced more sparks than light. AP diplomatic reporter John M. Hightower looks behind the scenes of the White House meeting to report what was really accomplished and what may be expected to happen.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Diplomatic Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top Allied leaders are resigned to losing a great block of Indochina to the Communists.

The shooting war was around Hanoi and peace negotiations between French-led forces and the Communists have gone beyond the point where the United States can influence them decisively.

The issue of Red Chinese bids for recognition and for United Nations membership is expected to press hard upon the heels of any Indochina settlement.

With Moscow needling, this issue promises to make grave trouble among the United States, Britain and France in the fall.

Other forces, too, are working to pull the Western Allies apart despite the emphasis placed here this week on what Sir Winston Churchill called an "unbreakable solidarity."

IT IS EXACTLY a week now since Churchill flew into Washington by his own request to talk, alongside Foreign Secretary Eden, with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

It has been an intensive week in other ways. Talks on the Southeast Asian crisis have been held by Dulles with Australia's Foreign Minister Richard Casey, New Zealand's Ambassador Leslie Munro and Thailand's Foreign Minister, Prince Wan Waithayakon. The situation has been touched upon in official British-American statements, in a Churchill talk and in an Eisenhower press conference.

The conclusions stated above have been drawn from an analysis of all these developments, and from many talks with knowledgeable diplomatic sources.

The ability of the free world to meet the Communist threat inside Indochina appears not to have been materially increased. Dulles' efforts to get going at once on a collective defense for Southeast Asia remain frustrated and frozen—although some thought is now being given to trying to change this situation.

THERE IS AMONG officials of the Eisenhower administration an obvious feeling that general relations with Britain are for the moment a little better, but do not show very much improvement in basic ways. There has been no evidence of any gleeful shouting on the part of any of the people who have participated in the extraordinary diplomatic activity.

The situation may best be seen in the light of two or three recent incidents. On March 29 the American government, through a speech by Dulles, issued an emergency call for "united action" to halt Communist expansion in Southeast Asia. Privately, officials were talking in terms of intervention in the Indochina war.

France and Britain were cool. In mid-April Dulles flew to London and Paris. On his return home, he thought he had agreement to have a conference and begin drawing up a 10-nation Southeast Asian pact. A bitter controversy with Eden arose when the British blocked his plans for a meeting a few days in advance of the Geneva conference. Britain wanted no part of such a move before Geneva. She

AND THE DRIVER LIVED. A Cincinnati attorney was pulled alive from his small foreign make auto at Cincinnati Thursday after being trapped in the vehicle for 45 minutes when a loaded fruit truck overturned on the machine in Reading Road. The attorney, William Hauer, 27, was taken to a local hospital, where his condition was described as fair.

Guatemalan Peace Treaty Signed To End Civil Strife

House Battles Over Flexible Farm Prices

Administration Wins Compromise in First Round of Floor Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—House forces backing another year of fixed high farm price supports sought to rally their forces today from a surprising initial setback in the battle over new farm legislation.

Both the House leadership and the rival fixed-support group predicted victory when yesterday's House action, still tentative, comes up for a formal verdict today.

The House yesterday rejected both fixed high supports and the Eisenhower administration program of flexible supports, and voted for a compromise put forward by House leaders. But the standing-vote decision could be reversed in a formal showdown roll call scheduled before nightfall.

92 Decline To Vote

Ninety-two members didn't take part in the standing vote when the House yesterday approved 179-164 a compromise price support amendment to the farm bill offered by Rep. Robert D. Harrison (R-Neb) with the backing of GOP House leaders.

Instead of the administration's program of flexible supports at 75 to 90 per cent of parity, the compromise calls for flexible supports between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity.

Before voting on the compromise, the House shouted down an amendment by Rep. Heselton (R-Mass) which would have enacted the administration program in toto.

Covers Six Commodities

The contested price support feature of the bill applies only to six basic commodities—cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts—all of which are now supported at 90 per cent of parity.

Of these, only tobacco would not be affected. Under present law and any proposed legislation, it would automatically remain at a 90 per cent support level.

Parity is a legally set price standard said to give farmers a fair return on their production in relation to their costs.

PEACE TALKS CONDUCTED. San Salvador (1) was the scene of peace talks in the Guatemalan war between Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, invasion chief, and Col. Elfego Monzan of Guatemala's newest military junta with El Salvador's President Oscar Osorio acting as mediator. Meanwhile Red leaders were reported to be trying to foment peasant uprisings at Concepcion and Escuintla.

Both Factions Represented In New Junta

Monzon Will Retain Leadership Pending Election in 15 Days

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—Guatemalan rebel leader Carlos Castillo Armas and government chief Elfego Monzon signed a peace pact here early today to end their country's two-week-old civil war.

Authoritative sources said the peace treaty provided for a new five-man military junta—Guatemala's fourth government this week—with Col. Castillo a member but with Col. Monzon heading it for the next 15 days.

After that, it was reported, the junta will elect a "permanent" chief.

Rebels Represented

The junta reportedly will be made up of two of the rebels—Castillo and his "defense Minister," Col. Enrique Oliva, and three members of the previous government—Monzon, Foreign Minister Col. Mauricio Dubois and Defense Minister Col. Jose Luis Cruz Salazar.

Observers here figured Castillo, during the two-week period, would seek to win the allegiance of one of the latter pair so that he could eventually head the junta.

The new junta reportedly will fly to the Guatemalan capital at 11 a. m. tomorrow to take over.

Reds Still Active

Awaiting them there was still more trouble, from Communist supporters of deposed President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman who were reported inciting peasants outside the capital to rise against the country's new rulers.

The Red leaders, who fled to the hills after Arbenz's downfall, were reported inflaming the peasantry with stories that the new regime would take away the lands the previous leftist government had turned over to them.

Army and police headquarters in Guatemala City acknowledged they were unable to meet demands for help against uprisings outside the capital.

TELLS OF PROFIT. Attorney Carl Budwesky, counsel for the Shirley Duke Corp., builders of a $13,846,000 apartment project in Alexandria, Va., denies anyone was "cheated" in the operation which netted "windfall" profits of more than two million dollars. He said it was a "question of who got the money." Budwesky testified before the Senate Banking committee in probe of FHA operations.

Flood Toll Set At 62 Dead, Up To 400 Missing

Rio Grande Recedes; State, Federal Help Rushed to Hit Areas

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (AP)—The Rio Grande was back in its banks today, its receding waters carrying the secret of how many died and leaving mounds of foul, disease-breeding mud.

Hidden in the muck and in the draining waters was the answer to whether the best available figures—62 dead, 90 to 400 missing—fall short of the truth.

President Eisenhower declared the stricken borderland eligible for disaster loans. Gov. Allan Shivers' own state disaster task force flew to the border to work with the federal people. The Red Cross, the Salvation Army and individuals had little rest.

Clothing, food, medicine and money were on the way.

The need was greatest across the river in Piedras Negras, whose announced toll of 38 dead and 90 missing may be a mockery. One Mexican army major said the dead there may number more than 400.

Nuevo Laredo, sister Mexican city of Laredo, Tex., counted its first dead—the bodies of five members of a family identified only as Gomez. They were recovered yesterday.

'Rice Bowl' Lost

French Complete Delta Withdrawal

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The French announced today their troops have "successfully completed" evacuation of five fortified cities and 2,000 square miles of populous rice land in the south of the Red River delta.

Most of the thousands of soldiers involved in the massive withdrawal already have taken up defense positions farther north around Hanoi, an army spokesman said.

Vietminh efforts to disrupt the movement were beaten off with only a few French soldiers killed, he said, and there was "almost no loss of ammunition, vehicles or guns."

(In Singapore, Associated Press Correspondent Larry Allen, who recently left Indochina after two years, reported that the windup of the operation would leave more than half of the strategic Red River delta in control of the Communist-led Vietminh and put an additional four million Vietnamese under the Red flag.)

The delta, long regarded by the French and most Western powers as the main bastion against the sweep of communism into the rest of Indochina and Southeast Asia, is crumbling in huge blocks, Allen says.

The war against the Communist-led Vietminh, now in its eighth year, may end with a cease-fire giving the rebels northern Indochina as their peace prize, or they may take the area by smashing the French. In either event, it would be difficult to find anyone who believes that would content Vietminh chief Ho Chi Minh.

Most observers—French, Vietnamese and foreign—are convinced he will have all of Indochina in a very short time, regardless of any line drawn by the Geneva conference, once the final chapter is written in the delta.

The French high command says the pull-out from the rich southern areas of the delta region was necessary to strengthen the defenses against an expected "human sea" assault along the Hanoi-Haiphong railroad and highway.

Missing County Woman Hunted By Posse of 13

A posse of approximately 13 men is hunting for a missing 38-year-old Marion County woman missing from her home since Wednesday evening.

Lunas Johnson, who lives about four miles southeast of Marion on the Richland Pike, told the sheriff's office at 4 p.m. Thursday about his wife's disappearance.

He reported he last saw her between 7:15 and 9 p.m. Wednesday as he was leaving the house. At that time she was wearing a white blouse and black skirt, he said.

The posse, organized last night, was joined by an airplane piloted by Kess Hill, an instructor at the Baker Airport. The men on foot and in the airplane searched surrounding areas, including two woods nearby.

Sheriff's deputies this morning indicated that they may search the Kings Mill Dam area today.

Holiday Paper

In line with its usual holiday custom, The Star will go to press with its Monday paper shortly before midnight Sunday night and papers will be distributed to the homes early Monday morning.

The classified advertising department will be open Saturday afternoon until 5:30 to accept want ads for Monday's paper. News articles intended for publication Monday should be brought or called in to the news department before 9 p.m. Sunday.

Scores Injured

Philippine Quake Claims Lives of 22

MANILA (AP)—At least 22 persons were reported dead and scores were injured today in a strong earthquake which jolted the central Philippines.

The provincial capital of Sorsogon bore the brunt of the quake and a police official there reported 20 persons were dead and enormous property damage. Two others were killed at Legaspi City to the north.

Damage Severe

Capt. Isagani Abella, commander of the Sorsogon constabulary garrison radioed police headquarters here:

"Twenty persons believed dead this capital alone. Property damage enormous. Concrete fence around our camp and our radio transmitter station totally wrecked. Our headquarters badly damaged. . . ."

Eighty per cent of the old buildings in Sorsogon, a city of 26,000, were destroyed, Philippine News Service said. The towering steeple on a Catholic cathedral toppled.

Communications Cut

Communications with the area, on the southeastern tip of Luzon, were disrupted. Meager reports were relayed here from a ship in Sorsogon harbor.

Huge landslides were reported between Sorsogon and Albany province to the north.

The Philippine Red Cross office here said field reports described the quake as the strongest ever to hit Sorsogon province, a rich copra producing region of almost 300,000 persons. It reportedly lasted 80 seconds.

Red Cross teams flew to the area.

Talks Readied In New York on Phone Walkout

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for Western Electric Co., and the union met separately today in preparation for a joint session later in the day in an effort to end the day-old coast to coast strike of telephone equipment installers.

Officials of District 10, CIO Communications Workers of America, called the walkout yesterday and by noon most of its 17,000 members were idle.

The dispute over higher wages, contemplated transfers and grievance procedure could cripple the Bell Telephone System in 44 states and the District of Columbia if the union throws picket lines around telephone exchange buildings.

Western Electric is the manufacturing arm of the Bell System.

Telephone operators in Texas walked off their jobs yesterday in a number of cities, honoring the

Senators Push for Final Decision Today on Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weary senators, a marathon session behind them and promise of a three-day holiday ahead, gathered for a quick push to final passage today of the administration's disputed tax overhaul bill.

Leaders on both sides predicted the remaining half-dozen or so amendments would be disposed of in short order.

Some Opposition Remains

Several senators said they planned to vote against the giant tax revision measure on final passage. But its approval, pretty much in the form sought by President Eisenhower, seemed assured.

Members were saddened by the death of 76-year-old Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska, announced in the chamber just before the Senate wound up 13 hours of debate at midnight last night.

Butler was the second-ranking Republican on the Finance Committee, which wrote the Senate version of the tax bill.

At 11 p.m., half an hour before Butler died of a stroke suffered Wednesday night, Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) said the long debate on the tax bill during the week probably had contributed to Butler's collapse.

Tax Cut Loses Again

Sen. Long (D-La) revived the income tax cut issue yesterday with a plan whose effect was in between two earlier amendments, one Democratic and the other Republican-sponsored, which had gone down to defeat by identical 49-46 votes Wednesday.

Long proposed to give every taxpayer a $20 cut by a credit on his return — a $1,400,000,000 annual tax reduction. But he lost 50-33 aft-

Death Claims Sen. Butler Of Nebraska After Stroke

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska died at the age of 76 last night, the fourth U. S. senator and the second from his state to succumb this year.

Butler, who had been elected to his third six-year term two years ago, suffered a stroke Wednesday night. He was taken to the naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md., yesterday morning and died there about 11:30 p.m. last night.

The day before he had been active in the Senate, apparently in good health.

Strong Campaigner

A former grain dealer, he was a strong campaigner who defeated several governors in his various campaigns for the Senate. He was active in Rotary and the Congregational Church.

His wife and two children preceded him in death.

Sen. Eva Bowring (R-Neb) announced his death in the Senate, working late on a big tax revision bill, and it immediately recessed out of respect. Mrs. Bowring is serving by appointment, filling the vacancy created April 12 when Republican Sen. Dwight P. Griswold died, also after a heart attack. Griswold was 60.

Third Senator To Die

Two other senators have died this year: Clyde R. Hoey (D-NC), 76, and Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo), 62. Hoey suffered a heart attack; Hunt shot himself.

And three Senate members of the 83rd Congress died last year; Willis Smith (D-NC), 65, Charles W. Tobey (R-NH), 65, and Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), 63.

Butler's death will not affect the Senate lineup, now 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 independent. Gov. Robert Crosby of Nebraska is a Republican and will appoint a Republican to serve until the November election.

Leaders on both sides predicted the remaining half-dozen or so amendments would be disposed of in short order.

Some Opposition Remains

Several senators said they planned to vote against the giant tax revision measure on final passage. But its approval, pretty much in the form sought by President Eisenhower, seemed assured.

Members were saddened by the death of 76-year-old Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska, announced in the chamber just before the Senate wound up 13 hours of debate at midnight last night.

Butler was the second-ranking Republican on the Finance Committee, which wrote the Senate version of the tax bill.

At 11 p.m., half an hour before Butler died of a stroke suffered Wednesday night, Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) said the long debate on the tax bill during the week probably had contributed to Butler's collapse.

Tax Cut Loses Again

Sen. Long (D-La) revived the income tax cut issue yesterday with a plan whose effect was in between two earlier amendments, one Democratic and the other Republican-sponsored, which had gone down to defeat by identical 49-46 votes Wednesday.

Long proposed to give every taxpayer a $20 cut by a credit on his return — a $1,400,000,000 annual tax reduction. But he lost 50-33 aft-

Death Claims Sen. Butler Of Nebraska After Stroke

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska died at the age of 76 last night, the fourth U. S. senator and the second from his state to succumb this year.

Butler, who had been elected to his third six-year term two years ago, suffered a stroke Wednesday night. He was taken to the naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md., yesterday morning and died there about 11:30 p.m. last night.

The day before he had been active in the Senate, apparently in good health.

Strong Campaigner

A former grain dealer, he was a strong campaigner who defeated several governors in his various campaigns for the Senate. He was active in Rotary and the Congregational Church.

His wife and two children preceded him in death.

Sen. Eva Bowring (R-Neb) announced his death in the Senate, working late on a big tax revision bill, and it immediately recessed out of respect. Mrs. Bowring is serving by appointment, filling the vacancy created April 12 when Republican Sen. Dwight P. Griswold died, also after a heart attack. Griswold was 60.

Third Senator To Die

Two other senators have died this year: Clyde R. Hoey (D-NC), 76, and Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo), 62. Hoey suffered a heart attack; Hunt shot himself.

And three Senate members of the 83rd Congress died last year; Willis Smith (D-NC), 65, Charles W. Tobey (R-NH), 65, and Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), 63.

Butler's death will not affect the Senate lineup, now 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 independent. Gov. Robert Crosby of Nebraska is a Republican and will appoint a Republican to serve until the November election.

2 Local Youths Caught Taking Farmer's Gas

Charges against Joe Hudkins, 18, of 769 N. State St., and a 15-year-old companion, who were apprehended early this morning while taking gasoline from the Harry Brewer farm north of Marion, were expected to be filed some time today, the Marion County sheriff's office reported.

A passing motorist notified the State Highway Patrol shortly after midnight that he thought an accident had occurred nearby on Route 23 north of Marion, with the automobile going off the road. Patrolmen, not having a car available immediately, notified the sheriff's office.

A sheriff's deputy was sent to investigate. As he arrived the youths were attempting to leave the barnyard. Brewer, whose home is a short distance from the barn, was blocking their path with his automobile.

The youths had removed gasoline from the tank near the barn with a hose after breaking the tank's lock. They had filled the tank of their car. Two empty five-gallon cans were in their car.

As they heard Brewer's automobile approaching, they had left the tank running in their hurry to leave, and gasoline was pouring on the ground. A value of $25 has been placed on the gasoline taken.

Held for investigation, the youths are being questioned about their possible implications in the recent wave of gasoline thefts from Marion County farms this spring.

Indochina

promised to explore it when peace negotiations were ended.

Since that time U. S. policy has been stymied. For various reasons it proved impossible to set up an alliance without Britain. A few weeks ago it appeared that Geneva would fail to get peace. But then a French government upheaval and certain Communist maneuvers caused the British, French and others to take more hope. Meanwhile, Churchill had sent word he wanted to come to Washington.

Also, five Asian countries—Indonesia, India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon—met at Colombo and discussed the twin problems, as they see them, of Western colonialism and international communism. They tended to split between the Western and Communist sides.

Just before coming to Washington, Eden suggested a nonaggression system which would involve Western countries and Red China in guarantees to secure the safety of Indochina. This was an obvious bid by Britain for the support of India and if possible, Indonesia—countries the British knew would never join in a Southeast Asian anti-Communist pact.

Another development parallel with the Churchill talks here was the visit of Red China's premier and foreign minister, Chou En-lai, to Pandit Nehru on his way home from Geneva.

In all these matters initiative seemed to rest with the French in trying to get an Indochina peace, with the British in trying to find a new approach to the Asian problem, and with Red China in trying to woo Nehru out of his chosen neutralism into a friendlier attitude toward Peiping.

Some of the nations most friendly to the United States in the Southwest Pacific-Southeast Asia area are distressed by the way things have gone. The recently re-elected Australian government has hardened its position on Southeast Asia and now is urging action much faster than is Britain. New Zealand seems to have taken the same position. At a meeting here Wednesday, representatives of Australia, New Zealand and the United States expressed "satisfaction" — apparently a carefully selected word — with the Churchill - Eisenhower agreement that plans for a collective Asian defense should be pressed forward. But among themselves they agreed upon, and announced, a "need for immediate action." Diplomats say the Philippines and Thailand feel the same way about it.

SECRETARY DULLES has before him a plan to go ahead quickly and create some kind of a coalition by common understanding or agreement among nations willing to co-operate—and to do so with or without Britain.

Eden has taken the position it will require a long time to work out a treaty. Even when Indochinese peace negotiations have taken a decisive turn, perhaps within the next 18 days, American authorities are not sure how enthusiastically the British will act on a security system.

For that matter, some of the best informed and most astute U.S. authorities are not sure how quickly this country can move either.

Watching parts of Indochina "go down the drain," as the saying is, the government clearly has been of two minds. Some authorities like Dulles (at least last March) and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, felt the United States had to intervene to save Indochina. There were others who talked strongly and publicly about the possible need for intervention, among them Senate Republican Leader Knowland and Vice President Nixon. Still others such as Secretary of Defense Wilson made clear that no money nor authority was being asked of Congress for such action and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey virtually ruled it out with statements about keeping taxes at nonemergency levels.

IT IS ALWAYS difficult for a nation with divided councils at home to exert vigorous leadership abroad. French diplomats pointed this out privately. So did the British and others. There were forces in Britain pressing toward separate action on her part. The United States itself took the position that Indochina was a French problem and the French would have to solve it as best they could.

It is difficult to say when the chances of American intervention dropped off virtually to zero.

It probably was shortly after the fall of the fortress of Dien Bien Phu It became apparent then that the French could not continue indefinitely to fight the war with the combat help of only native forces while policy makers of the Allied world haggled over the conditions and circumstances under which one or another nation might join in and give help.

Fishing in such muddy and troubled waters as those which cover the whole disastrous Indochina situation, American officials at the moment are able to define the best and worst they hope for.

At best they believe that the French - Communist negotiations may produce a settlement which will keep most of Indochina free. They envision such a settlement as partitioning Viet Nam, between the Reds in the North and the native non-Communist government in the South, and leaving Laos and Cambodia whole and free to run their own affairs.

At the worst—and there is a possibility this is the way it may go — the Reds would take over a large area of Viet Nam and get political agreements covering the rest of that state and of Laos and Cambodia which would pave the way for successful Red infiltration and seizure of power later on. That way all of Indochina would go down the drain.

There is a chance, of course, that the peace negotiations will collapse. Eisenhower and Churchill agreed to prepare for collective defense whether the war goes on or not.

There is some apprehension here that as part of any deal the Reds will demand and may well get French recognition for Communist China. Some authorities at least regard this as a probability. Coupled with existing British recognition and with British efforts to improve relations with Red China, French acceptance of the Peiping regime would strengthen Red China's bid for membership in the United Nations in place of Nationalist China. The United States recognizes the Nationalists and its policy in that respect is rock-hard. The whole issue may well develop fast enough for a showdown in the U.N. meetings in the fall.

THE RED CHINA problem is one of the most disruptive in British-American relations. It has caused more political attacks on Britain here, and more on the United States in Britain, than probably any other question.

Furthermore, the passage of time seems not to mellow but to freeze the opposing policies. In Congress now there is talk of pulling the United States out of the U. N. if Red China goes in. That would split this country apart from its allies to an extreme degree since, at least, on paper, the defensive alliances to which the United States belongs, generally acknowledge a legal link with the U. N. and are regarded by many of the other members as doing U. N. work in the face of Russia's veto.

There is, finally, a deeper difference between the United States and Britain—or between Churchill and Eisenhower—which was dramatically exposed in the statements made by the President and Prime Minister to newsmen this week, even though their joint statements emphasized harmony and glossed over contradictions of view.

CHURCHILL BUILT his rambling remarks to a press luncheon—and so to the American people—on the theme that peaceful co-existence with Russia is possible. He said it would be given "a real good try" because the alternative is a devastating war from which the Allies would emerge "victorious on a heap of ruins."

The same question about the possibility of co-existence was addressed to Eisenhower at a news conference two days later. He said he too hoped for peaceful co-existence but then declared he would never be party to any treaty that "makes anybody a slave" and wanted nothing to do with any appeasement of the Communists.

Many who heard both men gain the impression that though both would like nothing better than assurance of peaceful co-existence with Russia, Churchill has some faith that it is a practical possibility and Eisenhower has little or no such faith.

of aid which the United States was anxious to send across the river. Apparently protocol demands a formal request from the Mexicans. The request was not forthcoming, although everyone here knew food, medicine, water and technical help was needed in Piedras Negras.

Disorganization reduced the effectiveness of such help as the U.S. delivered despite protocol. Food ferried over by helicopter was distributed by truck—to the outstretched hands of the hungry.

installers' picketlines. Operators were reported out at Dallas, Austin San Antonio, Houston, Mexia, Fort Worth, Mineral Wells, Abilene and Lubbock, but were coming back to work today as picket lines were withdrawn.

Union leaders have announced they plan to delay nationwide picketing until Tuesday, but also indicated the plan was "subject to change."

With 80 per cent of the nation's phones on the dial system, the full impact of the strike on local telephone users would not be felt for some time.

But cross-country picketing would seriously disrupt long-distance calls and various services such as information. Some 300,000 phone operators are members of the CWA.

An exception to the mass walkout yesterday was in New Jersey, where 1,000 union members stayed on the job.

Informal talks between both parties were held yesterday. Following the conference, company officials indicated a joint meeting may take place sometime today.

States not affected by the strike are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Montana. Maintenance and installation work in those areas are handled by the Bell System rather than by Western Electric.

The CWA's contract with Western Electric expired May 2.

The union seeks a 6 to 8-cent hourly pay boost and the company has offered 4 to 7 cents. Present pay averages $1.86 an hour.

2 Local Youths Caught Taking Farmer's Gas

Charges against Joe Hudkins, 18, of 769 N. State St., and a 15-year-old companion, who were apprehended early this morning while taking gasoline from the Harry Brewer farm north of Marion, were expected to be filed some time today, the Marion County sheriff's office reported.

A passing motorist notified the State Highway Patrol shortly after midnight that he thought an accident had occurred nearby on Route 23 north of Marion, with the automobile going off the road. Patrolmen, not having a car available immediately, notified the sheriff's office.

A sheriff's deputy was sent to investigate. As he arrived the youths were attempting to leave the barnyard. Brewer, whose home is a short distance from the barn, was blocking their path with his automobile.

The youths had removed gasoline from the tank near the barn with a hose after breaking the tank's lock. They had filled the tank of their car. Two empty five-gallon cans were in their car.

As they heard Brewer's automobile approaching, they had left the tank running in their hurry to leave, and gasoline was pouring on the ground. A value of $25 has been placed on the gasoline taken.

Held for investigation, the youths are being questioned about their possible implications in the recent wave of gasoline thefts from Marion County farms this spring.

Indochina

promised to explore it when peace negotiations were ended.

Since that time U. S. policy has been stymied. For various reasons it proved impossible to set up an alliance without Britain. A few weeks ago it appeared that Geneva would fail to get peace. But then a French government upheaval and certain Communist maneuvers caused the British, French and others to take more hope. Meanwhile, Churchill had sent word he wanted to come to Washington.

Also, five Asian countries—Indonesia, India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon—met at Colombo and discussed the twin problems, as they see them, of Western colonialism and international communism. They tended to split between the Western and Communist sides.

Just before coming to Washington, Eden suggested a nonaggression system which would involve Western countries and Red China in guarantees to secure the safety of Indochina. This was an obvious bid by Britain for the support of India and if possible, Indonesia—countries the British knew would never join in a Southeast Asian anti-Communist pact.

Another development parallel with the Churchill talks here was the visit of Red China's premier and foreign minister, Chou En-lai, to Pandit Nehru on his way home from Geneva.

In all these matters initiative seemed to rest with the French in trying to get an Indochina peace, with the British in trying to find a new approach to the Asian problem, and with Red China in trying to woo Nehru out of his chosen neutralism into a friendlier attitude toward Peiping.

Some of the nations most friendly to the United States in the Southwest Pacific-Southeast Asia area are distressed by the way things have gone. The recently re-elected Australian government has hardened its position on Southeast Asia and now is urging action much faster than is Britain. New Zealand seems to have taken the same position. At a meeting here Wednesday, representatives of Australia, New Zealand and the United States expressed "satisfaction" — apparently a carefully selected word — with the Churchill - Eisenhower agreement that plans for a collective Asian defense should be pressed forward. But among themselves they agreed upon, and announced, a "need for immediate action." Diplomats say the Philippines and Thailand feel the same way about it.

SECRETARY DULLES has before him a plan to go ahead quickly and create some kind of a coalition by common understanding or agreement among nations willing to co-operate—and to do so with or without Britain.

Eden has taken the position it will require a long time to work out a treaty. Even when Indochinese peace negotiations have taken a decisive turn, perhaps within the next 18 days, American authorities are not sure how enthusiastically the British will act on a security system.

For that matter, some of the best informed and most astute U.S. authorities are not sure how quickly this country can move either.

Watching parts of Indochina "go down the drain," as the saying is, the government clearly has been of two minds. Some authorities like Dulles (at least last March) and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, felt the United States had to intervene to save Indochina. There were others who talked strongly and publicly about the possible need for intervention, among them Senate Republican Leader Knowland and Vice President Nixon. Still others such as Secretary of Defense Wilson made clear that no money nor authority was being asked of Congress for such action and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey virtually ruled it out with statements about keeping taxes at nonemergency levels.

IT IS ALWAYS difficult for a nation with divided councils at home to exert vigorous leadership abroad. French diplomats pointed this out privately. So did the British and others. There were forces in Britain pressing toward separate action on her part. The United States itself took the position that Indochina was a French problem and the French would have to solve it as best they could.

It is difficult to say when the chances of American intervention dropped off virtually to zero.

It probably was shortly after the fall of the fortress of Dien Bien Phu It became apparent then that the French could not continue indefinitely to fight the war with the combat help of only native forces while policy makers of the Allied world haggled over the conditions and circumstances under which one or another nation might join in and give help.

Fishing in such muddy and troubled waters as those which cover the whole disastrous Indochina situation, American officials at the moment are able to define the best and worst they hope for.

At best they believe that the French - Communist negotiations may produce a settlement which will keep most of Indochina free. They envision such a settlement as partitioning Viet Nam, between the Reds in the North and the native non-Communist government in the South, and leaving Laos and Cambodia whole and free to run their own affairs.

At the worst—and there is a possibility this is the way it may go — the Reds would take over a large area of Viet Nam and get political agreements covering the rest of that state and of Laos and Cambodia which would pave the way for successful Red infiltration and seizure of power later on. That way all of Indochina would go down the drain.

There is a chance, of course, that the peace negotiations will collapse. Eisenhower and Churchill agreed to prepare for collective defense whether the war goes on or not.

There is some apprehension here that as part of any deal the Reds will demand and may well get French recognition for Communist China. Some authorities at least regard this as a probability. Coupled with existing British recognition and with British efforts to improve relations with Red China, French acceptance of the Peiping regime would strengthen Red China's bid for membership in the United Nations in place of Nationalist China. The United States recognizes the Nationalists and its policy in that respect is rock-hard. The whole issue may well develop fast enough for a showdown in the U.N. meetings in the fall.

THE RED CHINA problem is one of the most disruptive in British-American relations. It has caused more political attacks on Britain here, and more on the United States in Britain, than probably any other question.

Furthermore, the passage of time seems not to mellow but to freeze the opposing policies. In Congress now there is talk of pulling the United States out of the U. N. if Red China goes in. That would split this country apart from its allies to an extreme degree since, at least, on paper, the defensive alliances to which the United States belongs, generally acknowledge a legal link with the U. N. and are regarded by many of the other members as doing U. N. work in the face of Russia's veto.

There is, finally, a deeper difference between the United States and Britain—or between Churchill and Eisenhower—which was dramatically exposed in the statements made by the President and Prime Minister to newsmen this week, even though their joint statements emphasized harmony and glossed over contradictions of view.

CHURCHILL BUILT his rambling remarks to a press luncheon—and so to the American people—on the theme that peaceful co-existence with Russia is possible. He said it would be given "a real good try" because the alternative is a devastating war from which the Allies would emerge "victorious on a heap of ruins."

The same question about the possibility of co-existence was addressed to Eisenhower at a news conference two days later. He said he too hoped for peaceful co-existence but then declared he would never be party to any treaty that "makes anybody a slave" and wanted nothing to do with any appeasement of the Communists.

Many who heard both men gain the impression that though both would like nothing better than assurance of peaceful co-existence with Russia, Churchill has some faith that it is a practical possibility and Eisenhower has little or no such faith.

of aid which the United States was anxious to send across the river. Apparently protocol demands a formal request from the Mexicans. The request was not forthcoming, although everyone here knew food, medicine, water and technical help was needed in Piedras Negras.

Disorganization reduced the effectiveness of such help as the U.S. delivered despite protocol. Food ferried over by helicopter was distributed by truck—to the outstretched hands of the hungry.

installers' picketlines. Operators were reported out at Dallas, Austin San Antonio, Houston, Mexia, Fort Worth, Mineral Wells, Abilene and Lubbock, but were coming back to work today as picket lines were withdrawn.

Union leaders have announced they plan to delay nationwide picketing until Tuesday, but also indicated the plan was "subject to change."

With 80 per cent of the nation's phones on the dial system, the full impact of the strike on local telephone users would not be felt for some time.

But cross-country picketing would seriously disrupt long-distance calls and various services such as information. Some 300,000 phone operators are members of the CWA.

An exception to the mass walkout yesterday was in New Jersey, where 1,000 union members stayed on the job.

Informal talks between both parties were held yesterday. Following the conference, company officials indicated a joint meeting may take place sometime today.

States not affected by the strike are Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Montana. Maintenance and installation work in those areas are handled by the Bell System rather than by Western Electric.

The CWA's contract with Western Electric expired May 2.

The union seeks a 6 to 8-cent hourly pay boost and the company has offered 4 to 7 cents. Present pay averages $1.86 an hour.

First Task

By George Sokolsky

Sen. George Malone of Nevada is the only professional engineer in the United States Senate and therefore he brings into that body a point of view which is very different from that of the lawyer. An engineer is trained to deal with facts without poetic license; a lawyer is trained to defend a thesis or to advocate a cause.

SOKOLSKY

The problem that faces Malone's committee is: Precisely what is the situation of the United States with regard to minerals, metals and other strategic materials.

This committee has produced a tremendous volume of technical data, difficult to read at times but all of it extremely important.

The assumption has heretofore been that the United States was short of certain strategic materials which could only be made available by overseas commerce which could be shut down swiftly in the event of war.

FOR INSTANCE, tin and rubber from Malaya might be withheld from us should Red China come into possession of that country.

According to the Malone report, 77 minerals and materials, included in this report, are vital to the maintenance of the American economy and its prowess as a military force. It lays down this finding absolutely:

"The Western Hemisphere will be the only dependable source of the critical raw materials in the event of an all-out world war.

"The delivery of any such critical materials to this nation across a major ocean during such a conflict will be highly 'problematical'."

This position is unquestionable in the nature of modern warfare. The oceans can be closed down until one power or the other gains a total victory. The schnorkel submarine, the atomic submarine and the long-distance airplane make the ocean lanes of traffic unsuitable in war.

The Pacific Ocean was unsafe for the transportation of supplies of rubber and tin during World War II, with the result that the United States was forced to develop a synthetic rubber industry based on the Baruch Report.

It will be forgotten, of course, how Fiorello La Guardia desperately collected tin cans in the hope of meeting the tin crisis, cans which eventually helped to fill the Jersey meadows.

THE HOPE of meeting future crises is in a hemispheric cultivation of mineral production and the means for the transportation of minerals and their products without the perils of the seas.

The "Europe First" attitude of the State Department resulted not only in the loss of China but also in the partial abandonment of the Latin American countries. This committee lays emphasis on the importance of regarding the Western Hemisphere and cultivating its economy as a unit. It says:

"It is imperative to the security of this nation and to the nations of the Western Hemisphere that they foster the greatest measure of self-sufficiency in the production of the critical materials.

"It is vital to our domestic welfare, economy and security that maximum economic production be maintained within our borders.

"The Western Hemisphere can be defended.

"The Western Hemisphere can be made self-sufficient in the production of the critical materials which are essential in war and in peace."

IN TIME OF WAR, there will be no alternative to self-sufficiency. Once the oceans are closed down to commerce, we shall have to exist on what we have within our own boundaries or what we have stockpiled or what we can bring to our smelters and mills from within the Western Hemisphere.

Much of our thinking on this subject has been based on the assumption that many strategic minerals and materials were available only in Europe, Asia or Africa.

It is like that famous speech on "acres of diamonds": We seek all over the world for what can be found in our back-yard. The committee found:

"During the last two decades established procurement practices have dangerously increased our dependence upon nations across major oceans for the critical materials without which this nation cannot survive.

"Evidence is conclusive that we have become dependent upon overseas suppliers across such major oceans for many of such critical materials. We must avoid dependence upon an overseas supplier to the extent that he could suddenly render us impotent by withdrawing supplies of critical materials during a world conflict, or could use such dependence as a political or economic bargaining lever."

The supply of minerals and essential materials is the first task of war preparedness in this age

Truman Touch

By Victor Riesel

When Harry S. Truman agreed to get on a stage and play a duet with Jimmy Petrollo, the ebullient little Musicians' Union leader suggested "The Rosary", which he had learned to play on his first cornet. But the ex-president sent back word that he did not know it well enough for a convention of 700 musicians. So Jimmy pulled out a stand-by, "Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here."

RIESEL

Jimmy was practicing when Mr. Truman sent another message saying he couldn't come because the doctors had already forced him to cancel some 20 speaking dates. But Jimmy had a chartered plane readied to fly Truman from Kansas City to Milwaukee — and the former Chief Executive finally did come because he had promised to show the world that music doesn't always come out of a juke box.

They played, and the notes were heard 'round the world. "Harry" stayed just a while. He told Jimmy and one or two others, among other things, that he felt the Indochinese crisis was the gravest we've faced in almost a decade.

OF COURSE, there was talk about Margaret Truman. The ex-President said that he and "the Mrs." wanted very much to go to her theatrical debut, but that he had followed a policy of not putting in an appearance which would seem to plug his daughter. Then he said he had seriously considered donning a black - beard disguise to go. Jimmy looked up and grinned, but the former president was not jesting. He was weary and wanted to see his daughter.

Truman flew home, fatigued, because the chartered plane had to run west to Omaha to by-pass a storm. All the way out and back, Truman worked on papers. It should be recorded that he made his last public appearance, before being bedded down last week, on a labor convention platform.

This was no accident. Mr. Truman came as close to being a labor president as is possible under our two party system. It was Mr. Truman's constant delivery to the trade unions which brought about a quiet revolution inside labor—the abandonment of its traditional neutrality in presidential campaigns and the merging of labor leaders with a good part of the Democrats' political machinery. It is not inconceivable now that a labor leader will some day have a second place on the party's national ticket.

TRUMAN IS GENUINELY fond of Petrillo and most of the other top labor chiefs. But the tie is stronger than hail - fellow well met. Truman sees labor as part of a winning political partnership. And he became ill wooing it for his party in the past few months.

He has felt this way, it seems to me, ever since the 1944 Democratic convention, when the AFL and the Railroad Brotherhoods backed him for the vice - presidential nomination as "the second Missouri Compromise."

Before the end of 1945, less than eight months after he took office, Truman seized more than 12 petroleum refineries, machine works, coal mines, textile mills, rubber plants, railroad and truck lines (including the entire Chicago trucking industry) to prevent their being shut down by strikes. And, of course, each time the unions got most of what they had demanded.

Only once did he battle labor. That was the day he went up the Hill to ask that striking railroad workers be drafted into the Army.

I learned from those who were in his private office then that the one thing he feared inside labor, as well as elsewhere, was "bigness" combined with tough and powerful leadership.

HE TALKED frequently about John Lewis' power and that of the railroad unions' chiefs. When the railroad workers paralyzed the nation's lines, he got mad.

This fear of too much power in labor was almost a phobia at that time. Then he eased up. The turning point came late in 1946 when the conservative wing in the White House led by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder lost to a group of New Dealers, including FDR's most devoted adviser, Judge Sam Rosenman.

They had been battling over a presidential message. After that struggle, Truman's coalition with labor tightened.

He had the knack of talking to labor people in their own jargon and he soon became an honorary member of various unions. Not too long before he went to the hospital, Truman was given a gold membership card in the CIO men's clothing workers. He wrote the union president, Jack Potofsky a letter of thanks. The last sentence was: "I haven't sewed any buttons, yet!"

Truman could reach the union leaders — and they made a powerful combine.

Death Rises Early

By Hal Boyle

Editor's Note — The National Safety Council forecasts a record number of deaths over the 4th of July weekend. In the interest of a safe and sane holiday, we are reissuing the following column which was widely praised by safety officials last year.

NEW YORK

Death got up early this morning.

As America began to celebrate the long Independence Day weekend, Death promptly went on overtime.

HAL BOYLE

For when mankind has a holiday for any reason, Death can know no idleness. He must tabulate a great human self-slaughter.

And so it was Death rose early today. He had a lot to do in the busy days ahead. He had many a mortal rendezvous to keep on highway and byway, in homes and saloons, on pond and pavement, on mountain cliff and summer playground.

FOR DEATH HAD a double duty. He had not only his usual job to do, the escorting of the sick and old and life-worn across his pale frontier. He had his extra holiday clients to attend to. The lost battalion of the needless dead.

On such days as these, Death, the fair weather friend of the foolish, initiates new members into the D.O.A. club. This club has no dues and no life memberships. It is made up of unseeing holiday victims who are brought to hospitals and tagged with a card bearing three initials that stand for "dead on arrival."

But on some of the curves another car does come around the bend. There is a scream and a crash of metal. And Death says to the silent husband. "So long, sucker." And he says to the silent wife. "You'll never have to live with another fool, dear." Then he walks over to the silent, huddled driver of the second car and says, "Pal, I know you didn't want to join our organization, but I am only taking membership, and this other guy nominated you. And now you belong."

OR DEATH PUTS his arm around a teen-age high school driver and says, "Faster, kid, faster. Boy, you're a real hot rodder. Sure, you can see clear in the moonlight. Let's see how close you can come to that bridge abutment." A moment later the boy's ribs are in his lungs, blood drowns his whimpers, and Death tags him and says, "You know, I almost thought you'd make it. Well, even counting the funeral costs, I still saved your folks most of the $5,000 they'd put away for your college education."

And somewhere a mother at a picnic, busy fixing the lunch, is sure someone else in the family is keeping an eye on the child who toddles toward the lakefront. And, sure enough, someone is. "Come in, little boy," says Death from the water. "I will catch you, and your mother will never, never forget you again. See the pretty tag I have for you?"

AN OVERWEIGHT MAN of 45 with a fading heart calls across the tennis court to his son, "Junior, I'll beat you this fifth set or drop dead." And as he wearily lifts his racquet, Death taps him and says, Drop."

Death waits on a darkened porch as a little girl in a filmy dress sneaks out with a sparkler in her hand. "Go ahead and light the sparkler all by yourself," coaxes Death. "You're a big girl now."

When the screams die into silence, Death hurries to a room where a holiday-lonely man, sick with self-pity, looks at the gun in his hand and mutters, "Would I be any more lonely dead?" And Death, writing his tag, says, "Well, come and see."

So Death will move at a ceaseless pace today, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, playing his deadly game of tag across all America with the holiday risk-takers and their victims. And the foolish. And the unwary. Wherever he pauses an ambulance will follow, halt, pick up a still burden and race with it to a hospital where it will get the epitaph:

"D.O.A.—dead on arrival."

First Task

By George Sokolsky

Sen. George Malone of Nevada is the only professional engineer in the United States Senate and therefore he brings into that body a point of view which is very different from that of the lawyer. An engineer is trained to deal with facts without poetic license; a lawyer is trained to defend a thesis or to advocate a cause.

SOKOLSKY

The problem that faces Malone's committee is: Precisely what is the situation of the United States with regard to minerals, metals and other strategic materials.

This committee has produced a tremendous volume of technical data, difficult to read at times but all of it extremely important.

The assumption has heretofore been that the United States was short of certain strategic materials which could only be made available by overseas commerce which could be shut down swiftly in the event of war.

FOR INSTANCE, tin and rubber from Malaya might be withheld from us should Red China come into possession of that country.

According to the Malone report, 77 minerals and materials, included in this report, are vital to the maintenance of the American economy and its prowess as a military force. It lays down this finding absolutely:

"The Western Hemisphere will be the only dependable source of the critical raw materials in the event of an all-out world war.

"The delivery of any such critical materials to this nation across a major ocean during such a conflict will be highly 'problematical'."

This position is unquestionable in the nature of modern warfare. The oceans can be closed down until one power or the other gains a total victory. The schnorkel submarine, the atomic submarine and the long-distance airplane make the ocean lanes of traffic unsuitable in war.

The Pacific Ocean was unsafe for the transportation of supplies of rubber and tin during World War II, with the result that the United States was forced to develop a synthetic rubber industry based on the Baruch Report.

It will be forgotten, of course, how Fiorello La Guardia desperately collected tin cans in the hope of meeting the tin crisis, cans which eventually helped to fill the Jersey meadows.

THE HOPE of meeting future crises is in a hemispheric cultivation of mineral production and the means for the transportation of minerals and their products without the perils of the seas.

The "Europe First" attitude of the State Department resulted not only in the loss of China but also in the partial abandonment of the Latin American countries. This committee lays emphasis on the importance of regarding the Western Hemisphere and cultivating its economy as a unit. It says:

"It is imperative to the security of this nation and to the nations of the Western Hemisphere that they foster the greatest measure of self-sufficiency in the production of the critical materials.

"It is vital to our domestic welfare, economy and security that maximum economic production be maintained within our borders.

"The Western Hemisphere can be defended.

"The Western Hemisphere can be made self-sufficient in the production of the critical materials which are essential in war and in peace."

IN TIME OF WAR, there will be no alternative to self-sufficiency. Once the oceans are closed down to commerce, we shall have to exist on what we have within our own boundaries or what we have stockpiled or what we can bring to our smelters and mills from within the Western Hemisphere.

Much of our thinking on this subject has been based on the assumption that many strategic minerals and materials were available only in Europe, Asia or Africa.

It is like that famous speech on "acres of diamonds": We seek all over the world for what can be found in our back-yard. The committee found:

"During the last two decades established procurement practices have dangerously increased our dependence upon nations across major oceans for the critical materials without which this nation cannot survive.

On such days as these, Death, the fair weather friend of the foolish, initiates new members into the D.O.A. club. This club has no dues and no life memberships. It is made up of unseeing holiday victims who are brought to hospitals and tagged with a card bearing three initials that stand for "dead on arrival."

Death rises early because he knows that by next Monday morning he must meet and wave to many of his friends. For by next Monday night there are hundreds of Americans he must meet and wave to their doom— a D.O.A tag. The potential membership crop was large and the land was wide, and Death is conscientious. He didn't want anyone who earned that tag to miss it.

WHEREVER AMERICANS set out to celebrate the holiday, this skeletal comrade of the stupid and careless went right along for the fun. And here is what he will say to some, or perhaps is already saying even now:

In 10,000 cars rounding 10,000 curves, he whispers to the driver, "Go on and pass that car ahead of you. Never mind what your wife is saying. What makes her think there might be another car coming around the bend toward you anyway? Wives are always worrying about something."

But on some of the curves another car does come around the bend. There is a scream and a crash of metal. And Death says to the silent husband. "So long, sucker." And he says to the silent wife. "You'll never have to live with another fool, dear." Then he walks over to the silent, huddled driver of the second car and says, "Pal, I know you didn't want to join our organization, but I am only taking membership, and this other guy nominated you. Speaker Talks On Beginnings Of U.S. Liberty

Frederick Taylor Wilson, professional lecturer and author, spoke on "Birth of Our Liberties" at the Marion Kiwanis Club weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding.

He opened his talk by reminding his audience that since we see the stars every night we take them for granted, but something unusual, such as the eclipse of the sun, attracts us

Common things, he said such as our liberties, we take for granted. He said we have no fear because of the freedoms which we have, such as freedom of the press, freedom of assembly and freedom of religion.

Mr. Wilson discussed the why, who and what about the Constitution. He stated many historical facts as to what brought about the writing of the Constitution, telling of the various men who were involved in forming it, and just what it means.

He delved into early history, telling of the 13 original colonies and how they were drawn together. He explained that one of the first steps was the regulation of commerce on the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay.

Mr Wilson stressed that we need to appreciate our government and our freedoms

Program chairman for the day was Harry L. Dowler, who introduced the speaker.

Introduced as new members of the club by Arthur F Busch, a past lieutenant governor were Robert Kelley and Dr. John McNamara.

Visiting Kiwanians were R T Trippy of Columbus, L. L Garver of Mount Gilead, and Rev Sheridan T. Walker of Mount Gilead. Guests included Rowland Smith of Hawaii and James Chapman of Worthington.

Speaker Talks On Beginnings Of U.S. Liberty

Frederick Taylor Wilson, professional lecturer and author, spoke on "Birth of Our Liberties" at the Marion Kiwanis Club weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding.

He opened his talk by reminding his audience that since we see the stars every night we take them for granted, but something unusual, such as the eclipse of the sun, attracts us

Common things, he said such as our liberties, we take for granted. He said we have no fear because of the freedoms which we have, such as freedom of the press, freedom of assembly and freedom of religion.

Mr. Wilson discussed the why, who and what about the Constitution. He stated many historical facts as to what brought about the writing of the Constitution, telling of the various men who were involved in forming it, and just what it means.

He delved into early history, telling of the 13 original colonies and how they were drawn together. He explained that one of the first steps was the regulation of commerce on the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay.

Mr Wilson stressed that we need to appreciate our government and our freedoms

Program chairman for the day was Harry L. Dowler, who introduced the speaker.

Introduced as new members of the club by Arthur F Busch, a past lieutenant governor were Robert Kelley and Dr. John McNamara.

Visiting Kiwanians were R T Trippy of Columbus, L. L Garver of Mount Gilead, and Rev Sheridan T. Walker of Mount Gilead. Guests included Rowland Smith of Hawaii and James Chapman of Worthington.

Bank Robbers Seize $50,000

Five Chicago Gunmen Stage Daylight Holdup

CHICAGO (AP) — Five robbers, armed with a machine gun, shotgun and pistols, took almost $50,000 in a bold daylight holdup of the Ashland State Bank today.

Bank officials at first estimated the loot at about $25,000, but later reported an audit showed $46,878 was missing.

The gunmen, wearing black stockings with eye-slits over their heads, charged into the bank through a side door a few minutes after opening time, menaced bank employes and then vaulted over counters into the tellers' cages.

Mrs. Anderson dropped with both hands on the holdup alarm, but the robbers were gone within minutes.

Four gunmen ran into the bank while the fifth stood guard outside with the machine gun.

The gunmen forced Eugene F. Cronin, the bank president, two other men and five other employes to lie on the floor during the holdup.

Senators Urge Reappraisal of Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas told the Senate today that the "American people will refuse to support the United Nations if Communist China becomes a member."

Johnson lined up squarely behind Senate Republican leader Knowland of California in a demand for a reappraisal of this country's foreign policies and defense.

In an interview earlier, Knowland said he may ask Congress to shut off all American contributions to the U.N. if that organization admits the Chinese Reds. He said Secretary of State Dulles would be asked to reaffirm U.S. policy on the issue in an appearance before the Foreign Relations Committee today.

Again taking the same line as Knowland, Johnson told the Senate that he and the American people are "very uneasy about the intentions" of longtime allies.

Although he did not name them, Johnson made it clear he was talking about England and France.

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) took the floor soon after Johnson sat down, to register a dissent. He said this nation must be on guard against "these calls for going it alone or we soon may find ourselves going it alone in a third World War."

Morse said that while he opposes Communist China's admission to the U.N. and wants the American delegation to fight it vigorously, "I'm not going to take the position that if a majority of our allies make a mistake that we should walk out of the U.N."

Instead, he said the United States should remain in the organization and try to "reason" with its allies.

Youth's Leg Fractured In Hay Loading Mishap

A 17-year-old Marion youth, Bill Gallatin, suffered a fractured leg in a farm accident yesterday. He is reported in "good" condition in City Hospital today.

Gallatin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gallatin of 155 Superior St., fractured his left leg while working on the Robert White farm west of Marion. He reportedly was injured when his foot became caught in the wheel and chain of a hay elevator while he was loading bales of hay into a mow.

Drobny Takes Title

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Jaroslav Drobny, 32-year-old exiled Czech now living in Egypt, won the Wimbledon singles championship today by defeating 19-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia, 13-11, 4-6, 6-2, 9-7.

Marion Boy, 3, Run Over by Father's Auto

A three-year-old Marion boy is listed in "fair" condition at City Hospital today with injuries suffered yesterday when run over by an automobile driven by his father.

John Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell of 277 Lincoln Ave., sustained a fractured pelvis, a broken left arm and internal injuries when the right rear wheel of the family car passed over his back.

The accident happened at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the driveway at the Lincoln Ave. address.

The father said that Mrs. Campbell, a daughter, Elizabeth Ann, 4½, and John had gotten out of the car only a few minutes earlier.

Thinking the little boy was playing in the yard, Ralph started to back out of the drive. Suddenly, he heard John cry out and immediately stopped the car, jumped out and ran around to the rear to find the boy lying on the ground just ahead of the right rear wheel. He put the boy in his car and rushed him to the hospital.

The physician who treated the boy for his injuries reported there was a distinct imprint of the tire tread across the boy's back.

Man Missing Week Found On Park Bench

CHICAGO (AP)—Police today found William C. Groebl, 59-year-old suburban Park Ridge civic leader who disappeared mysteriously a week ago and had written a letter threatening suicide.

Park police found Groebl sitting on a bench in Grant Park, near the downtown section. He was taken to Central Park police headquarters.

Groebl, who was executive secretary of the Park Ridge Chamber of Commerce, had written a letter to his wife, Orpha, 60, saying he was "very depressed" because he felt his Chamber of Commerce job was "not working out right."

"After I mail this to you," he told his wife in the letter which was postmarked in Chicago Tuesday, "I am going up to the 23rd floor (of the Palmer House) and jump. That will end it as far as I am concerned."

Chief Willis Jones of Park Ridge said Groebl, after stating in the letter to his wife that he might jump from a tall building, remarked as an afterthought that he might drown himself instead in Lake Michigan.

Chicago police joined in the search after Mrs. Groebl reported receiving the letter from her husband.

Groebl left home for his office June 24 but never arrived there. He called his secretary, telling her he would be in the office later in the day.

First of 40 Million Motorists Hit Road For Long Weekend

CHICAGO (AP) — Motorists able to get ahead of the crowd hit the highways early today for the long July 4 weekend.

Other thousands went to work with grips packed with sports clothes, ready to catch evening trains, buses and planes for summer resorts.

The National Safety Council estimated that with good weather 40 million cars will be on the nation's highways Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The peak volume of travel will occur Monday afternoon and evening when the tourists head home.

For some 430 of the highway travelers, this may be their last July 4 holiday weekend. The council estimates that number will be killed in crashes between 6 p.m. today and midnight Monday.

Garbage Collection Schedule Change Slated Next Week

A change in the schedule of refuse and garbage collection in Marion next week was announced today.

Ralph E. Forrest, safety-service director, said the changes are being made to allow garbage department employes an opportunity to enjoy the July 4th holiday and at the same time maintain garbage and refuse collection service.

There will be no collections in the residential zones on Monday, but collection crews will work from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday to make all scheduled collections for the week. The crews normally work from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Collections in the business district will be made Monday morning from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. only. These crews will also work from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday to restore their schedules to normal.

In the residential zones, pickups normally made on Monday will be made on Tuesday along with some of the regular Tuesday pickups. On Wednesday the balance of the Tuesday pickups plus the Wednesday morning pickups will be made. On Thursday, the Wednesday afternoon and the morning and part of the afternoon Thursday collections will be complete. On Friday, the balance of the Thursday afternoon collections and Friday collections will be completed.

The safety-service department, engineering department, health department, auditor's office, city clerk's office, Municipal Court, and police record bureau will be closed Monday.

Traffic Cases

Fines totaling $195 were levied against five drivers in Marion Municipal Court Thursday when they pleaded guilty to various traffic charges.

Heaviest penalties went to one man charged with drunken driving and another accused of altering his driver's license.

Harold E. Glenn, 43, of 375 Clinton St. was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to five days in the Marion County jail and his driver's license was suspended for three years when he pleaded guilty to the drunken driving charge.

Fined $50 and costs on a charge of altering his driver's license was Clyde Lemasters, 31, of 42 Veterans Housing. Unable to pay the fine and costs, he was ordered committed to the Marion County jail.

Other dispositions were: Roy D. Rawlins, 19, of near Waldo, following too closely, $15 and costs; Ernsest T. Cunningham, 42, of Shelby, N. C., speeding, $15 and costs; and John A. Scranton, 32, of LaRue, illegal parking on highway, $15 and costs.

Use of radar to catch speeders was legalized by the 1954 Virginia Legislature.

Bank Robbers Seize $50,000

Five Chicago Gunmen Stage Daylight Holdup

CHICAGO (AP) — Five robbers, armed with a machine gun, shotgun and pistols, took almost $50,000 in a bold daylight holdup of the Ashland State Bank today.

Bank officials at first estimated the loot at about $25,000, but later reported an audit showed $46,878 was missing.

The gunmen, wearing black stockings with eye-slits over their heads, charged into the bank through a side door a few minutes after opening time, menaced bank employes and then vaulted over counters into the tellers' cages.

Mrs. Anderson dropped with both hands on the holdup alarm, but the robbers were gone within minutes.

Four gunmen ran into the bank while the fifth stood guard outside with the machine gun.

The gunmen forced Eugene F. Cronin, the bank president, two other men and five other employes to lie on the floor during the holdup.

Senators Urge Reappraisal of Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas told the Senate today that the "American people will refuse to support the United Nations if Communist China becomes a member."

Johnson lined up squarely behind Senate Republican leader Knowland of California in a demand for a reappraisal of this country's foreign policies and defense.

In an interview earlier, Knowland said he may ask Congress to shut off all American contributions to the U.N. if that organization admits the Chinese Reds. He said Secretary of State Dulles would be asked to reaffirm U.S. policy on the issue in an appearance before the Foreign Relations Committee today.

Again taking the same line as Knowland, Johnson told the Senate that he and the American people are "very uneasy about the intentions" of longtime allies.

Although he did not name them, Johnson made it clear he was talking about England and France.

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) took the floor soon after Johnson sat down, to register a dissent. He said this nation must be on guard against "these calls for going it alone or we soon may find ourselves going it alone in a third World War."

Morse said that while he opposes Communist China's admission to the U.N. and wants the American delegation to fight it vigorously, "I'm not going to take the position that if a majority of our allies make a mistake that we should walk out of the U.N."

Instead, he said the United States should remain in the organization and try to "reason" with its allies.

Youth's Leg Fractured In Hay Loading Mishap

A 17-year-old Marion youth, Bill Gallatin, suffered a fractured leg in a farm accident yesterday. He is reported in "good" condition in City Hospital today.

Gallatin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gallatin of 155 Superior St., fractured his left leg while working on the Robert White farm west of Marion. He reportedly was injured when his foot became caught in the wheel and chain of a hay elevator while he was loading bales of hay into a mow.

Drobny Takes Title

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Jaroslav Drobny, 32-year-old exiled Czech now living in Egypt, won the Wimbledon singles championship today by defeating 19-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia, 13-11, 4-6, 6-2, 9-7.

Marion Boy, 3, Run Over by Father's Auto

A three-year-old Marion boy is listed in "fair" condition at City Hospital today with injuries suffered yesterday when run over by an automobile driven by his father.

John Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell of 277 Lincoln Ave., sustained a fractured pelvis, a broken left arm and internal injuries when the right rear wheel of the family car passed over his back.

The accident happened at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the driveway at the Lincoln Ave. address.

The father said that Mrs. Campbell, a daughter, Elizabeth Ann, 4½, and John had gotten out of the car only a few minutes earlier.

Thinking the little boy was playing in the yard, Ralph started to back out of the drive. Suddenly, he heard John cry out and immediately stopped the car, jumped out and ran around to the rear to find the boy lying on the ground just ahead of the right rear wheel. He put the boy in his car and rushed him to the hospital.

The physician who treated the boy for his injuries reported there was a distinct imprint of the tire tread across the boy's back.

Man Missing Week Found On Park Bench

CHICAGO (AP)—Police today found William C. Groebl, 59-year-old suburban Park Ridge civic leader who disappeared mysteriously a week ago and had written a letter threatening suicide.

Park police found Groebl sitting on a bench in Grant Park, near the downtown section. He was taken to Central Park police headquarters.

Groebl, who was executive secretary of the Park Ridge Chamber of Commerce, had written a letter to his wife, Orpha, 60, saying he was "very depressed" because he felt his Chamber of Commerce job was "not working out right."

"After I mail this to you," he told his wife in the letter which was postmarked in Chicago Tuesday, "I am going up to the 23rd floor (of the Palmer House) and jump. That will end it as far as I am concerned."

Chief Willis Jones of Park Ridge said Groebl, after stating in the letter to his wife that he might jump from a tall building, remarked as an afterthought that he might drown himself instead in Lake Michigan.

Chicago police joined in the search after Mrs. Groebl reported receiving the letter from her husband.

Groebl left home for his office June 24 but never arrived there. He called his secretary, telling her he would be in the office later in the day.

First of 40 Million Motorists Hit Road For Long Weekend

CHICAGO (AP) — Motorists able to get ahead of the crowd hit the highways early today for the long July 4 weekend.

Other thousands went to work with grips packed with sports clothes, ready to catch evening trains, buses and planes for summer resorts.

The National Safety Council estimated that with good weather 40 million cars will be on the nation's highways Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The peak volume of travel will occur Monday afternoon and evening when the tourists head home.

For some 430 of the highway travelers, this may be their last July 4 holiday weekend. The council estimates that number will be killed in crashes between 6 p.m. today and midnight Monday.

Garbage Collection Schedule Change Slated Next Week

A change in the schedule of refuse and garbage collection in Marion next week was announced today.

Ralph E. Forrest, safety-service director, said the changes are being made to allow garbage department employes an opportunity to enjoy the July 4th holiday and at the same time maintain garbage and refuse collection service.

There will be no collections in the residential zones on Monday, but collection crews will work from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday to make all scheduled collections for the week. The crews normally work from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Collections in the business district will be made Monday morning from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. only. These crews will also work from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday to restore their schedules to normal.

In the residential zones, pickups normally made on Monday will be made on Tuesday along with some of the regular Tuesday pickups. On Wednesday the balance of the Tuesday pickups plus the Wednesday morning pickups will be made. On Thursday, the Wednesday afternoon and the morning and part of the afternoon Thursday collections will be complete. On Friday, the balance of the Thursday afternoon collections and Friday collections will be completed.

The safety-service department, engineering department, health department, auditor's office, city clerk's office, Municipal Court, and police record bureau will be closed Monday.

Traffic Cases

Fines totaling $195 were levied against five drivers in Marion Municipal Court Thursday when they pleaded guilty to various traffic charges.

Heaviest penalties went to one man charged with drunken driving and another accused of altering his driver's license.

Harold E. Glenn, 43, of 375 Clinton St. was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to five days in the Marion County jail and his driver's license was suspended for three years when he pleaded guilty to the drunken driving charge.

Fined $50 and costs on a charge of altering his driver's license was Clyde Lemasters, 31, of 42 Veterans Housing. Unable to pay the fine and costs, he was ordered committed to the Marion County jail.

Other dispositions were: Roy D. Rawlins, 19, of near Waldo, following too closely, $15 and costs; Ernsest T. Cunningham, 42, of Shelby, N. C., speeding, $15 and costs; and John A. Scranton, 32, of LaRue, illegal parking on highway, $15 and costs.

Police Adopt Radar

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Virginia state police officially used radar as a method of checking speeds for the first time yesterday and 41 motorist were given tickets for speeding.

Use of radar to catch speeders was legalized by the 1954 Virginia Legislature.

Yanks Sit Back To Watch Cleveland-Chicago Tilts

Champs To Face Senators As Top Two Clubs Tangle

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The time has come for the New York Yankees to sit back and watch Cleveland and Chicago knock each other around long enough for the Yanks to slip into the American League lead

It may not happen that way, but there never will be a better opportunity

Here's the situation in the league in the next 10 days

Cleveland, now leading by three games has to play the second place White Sox eight times between tonight and a week from Sunday

During the same spell the Yankees will be meeting fifth place Washington in seven games And right here may be the kicker The Yanks should win most or all of those games but there is no certainty that they will So far, the Senators steadfastly have refused to play dead for the New Yorkers In fact they've won five of the nine games played so far

Cleveland and Chicago have met eight times with the White Sox winning five Even if they can keep up this average the Sox will gain only one full game on the Indians They'll still trail Cleveland by two

But the path would be open for the Yankees If they could win their seven with Washington they'd shoot for the top, a game in front of Cleveland

Ball games, however still are decided on the field and not on paper and while the law of averages doesn't get violated very often some strange things can happen

A year ago today Casey Stengel's crew had lost nine consecutive games but still owned a six-game bulge over Cleveland and Chicago The slide ended at nine and the Yankees coasted home to the easiest of their five consecutive pennants

New York was the only one of the American League contenders that played yesterday. The Yankees jumped away to a 7-0 lead at Boston but had to struggle for an 8 7 victory This left the Yanks 3½ games out of first place

In the National League the New York Giants swept into a four-game lead by whipping Brooklyn for the third straight day 5-2 St Louis crushed Milwaukee 9 2 with Stan Musial and rookie Joe Cunningham hitting two home runs each No other games were scheduled in either league

Johnny Sain, who has allowed only eight runs in 35 2 3 innings of relief pitching, came to the Yankees' rescue in Boston and shutout the stubborn Red Sox through the final three innings Home runs by Mickey Mantle Hank Bauer and Andy Carey were the big blows in the Yanks 12-hit attack

The Giants used another of their late-inning climaxes to hog tie the Dodgers After Brooklyn had pulled into a 2 2 deadlock in the seventh on home runs by Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo the Giants came back with three in the eighth The first two of the three came as pinch hitter Dusty Rhodes duplicated his game-winning single of Tuesday night with the bases loaded

A single a throwing error by Campanella on a sacrifice bunt and a walk by Ervin Palica set it up for Dusty who batted for Monte Irvin Ruben Gomez, with ninth inning help from Hoyt Wilhelm and Marv Grissom, won his seventh game

Cunningham brought up to the Cardinal Wednesday as a replacement for Tom Alston hit one home run in his first major league game Wednesday night in Cincinnati and drove home four runs with his two blows into the right field seats at Milwaukee yesterday

Musial's homers were his 25th and 26th of the season and came after he had gone hitless the night before

Harvey Haddix the league's biggest winner was struck on the leg by a line drive off the bat of Joe Adcock in the fourth inning, but early fears of a fracture were dismissed by a hospital examination He probably will be out 10 days

Leo Durocher in his 15th year as pilot of a National League team is the senior manager of the circuit in point of service

Age Against Youth

Drobny, Rosewall Meet For Wimbledon Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Wily Jaroslav Drobny "the best player never to win at Wimbledon," gets his third chance at tennis' biggest title today when he meets young Ken Rosewall of Australia for the Wimbledon singles championship

Drobny now 32 will be the oldest Wimbledon champion since Big Bill Tilden broke the six year French moonopoly in 1930 if his drop shots and cute stuff prove too much for the 19-year-old Aussie ace to handle Rosewall, on the other hand would be the youngest champion since 1891 when 18-year-old W Baddeley won the title

Sydney B Wood Jr, was a few months older than Rosewall when he startled the tennis world by succeeding Tilden as champion in 1931

The seeding committee looked good yesterday as the top-rated Aussie doubles pair of Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose, by scores of 4-6, 6-4 6-2, 6-4, whipped Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris and Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla, in one semi-final In the other, the second ranked pair of Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia trounced the No 3 seeding Rosewall and Lew Hoad, also of Australia, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6 4-7, 8-6

But there was a little embarrassment for the committee in the women's semi-finals when Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif, outgeneraled Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla, 2 6 6-3, 6-3 The California girl, three time winner here, had been rated fourth and Miss Hart second

Miss Brough has a poor reward for her efforts however Now she has to face Maureen Connolly of San Diego Calif who whipped Louise for the title two years ago and, most experts agree has improved since Miss Connolly overwhelmed Mrs Betty Pratt of South Orange, N J, 6-1, 6-1 yesterday This match along with all the doubles finals, will be played tomorrow

Women's doubles semi-finals also were on tap today with Miss Brough and Mrs Margaret du Pont of Wilmington, Del — U S champions from 1942 through 1950—meeting Mrs Heather Brewer of Bermuda and Katharine Hubbell in one match The other pits the top-seeded pair of Miss Hart and Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio against Angela Mortimer and Ann Shilcock of England

Older Horses Give 2-Year-Old Leader Plenty of Trouble

WESTBURY, N. Y (AP)—Adios Boy, who turned in a 1 58 3-5 mile as a 2 year-old in 1953 and is rated the best of this year's 3-year-old pacers, is finding it difficult to beat older horses.

The son of Adios owned by J S Turner of Nassawadox Va, stepped out of his age group once last year and failed He tried it again last night at Roosevelt Raceway in the $25 000 National Pacing Derby and was edged out of first money by 6-year-old Canadian-owned Prince Adios

Adios, however, did beat the favored Philip Scott, another 6-year-old who finished third three-quarters of a length back of the sensational 3 year-old

Haddix on Injury Roster for 10 Days

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Harvey Haddix ace St Louis Cardinals' left hander, will miss only three pitching turns as the result of his injury here yesterday

"He'll be out about 10 days—three turns—" said Manager Eddie Stanky, as he watched the sophomore southpaw limp around the clubhouse "He was really lucky—and so were we"

Haddix was hit just below the kneecap by a vicious line drive off Joe Adcock's bat in the fourth inning of yesterday's game with Milwaukee

Haddix was carried off the field on a stretcher and rushed by police ambulance to a hospital where his injury was diagnosed as contusions and abrasions.

QUITS COACHING

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—George Pelton has asked to be relieved of his duties as basketball coach at nearby Austintown Fitch High School He plans to remain on the faculty but wants the extra time to work toward a master's degree

Aragon Given Bad Beating in Martinez Bout

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The shine was replaced by two shiners for Golden Boy Art Aragon today—and young Vince Martinez of New Jersey was certain for a high rating among the nation's welterweight boxers

The 25-year-old belter from Paterson, aiming for a shot at champion Kid Gavilan, handed the Los Angeles veteran a terrible beating last night to win an unanimous decision in 10 rounds

Aragon's face was a bloody mess He had slashes around both eyes which were almost shut tight, his nose was broken and his mouth was cut

Until tonight he was rated eighth nationally while Martinez was unranked But there was no question about the verdict.

Age Against Youth

Drobny, Rosewall Meet For Wimbledon Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Wily Jaroslav Drobny "the best player never to win at Wimbledon," gets his third chance at tennis' biggest title today when he meets young Ken Rosewall of Australia for the Wimbledon singles championship

Drobny now 32 will be the oldest Wimbledon champion since Big Bill Tilden broke the six year French moonopoly in 1930 if his drop shots and cute stuff prove too much for the 19-year-old Aussie ace to handle Rosewall, on the other hand would be the youngest champion since 1891 when 18-year-old W Baddeley won the title

Sydney B Wood Jr, was a few months older than Rosewall when he startled the tennis world by succeeding Tilden as champion in 1931

The seeding committee looked good yesterday as the top-rated Aussie doubles pair of Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose, by scores of 4-6, 6-4 6-2, 6-4, whipped Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris and Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla, in one semi-final In the other, the second ranked pair of Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia trounced the No 3 seeding Rosewall and Lew Hoad, also of Australia, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6 4-7, 8-6

But there was a little embarrassment for the committee in the women's semi-finals when Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif, outgeneraled Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla, 2 6 6-3, 6-3 The California girl, three time winner here, had been rated fourth and Miss Hart second

Miss Brough has a poor reward for her efforts however Now she has to face Maureen Connolly of San Diego Calif who whipped Louise for the title two years ago and, most experts agree has improved since Miss Connolly overwhelmed Mrs Betty Pratt of South Orange, N J, 6-1, 6-1 yesterday This match along with all the doubles finals, will be played tomorrow

Women's doubles semi-finals also were on tap today with Miss Brough and Mrs Margaret du Pont of Wilmington, Del — U S champions from 1942 through 1950—meeting Mrs Heather Brewer of Bermuda and Katharine Hubbell in one match The other pits the top-seeded pair of Miss Hart and Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio against Angela Mortimer and Ann Shilcock of England

WESTBURY, N. Y (AP)—Adios Boy, who turned in a 1 58 3-5 mile as a 2 year-old in 1953 and is rated the best of this year's 3-year-old pacers, is finding it difficult to beat older horses.

The son of Adios owned by J S Turner of Nassawadox Va, stepped out of his age group once last year and failed He tried it again last night at Roosevelt Raceway in the $25 000 National Pacing Derby and was edged out of first money by 6-year-old Canadian-owned Prince Adios

Adios, however, did beat the favored Philip Scott, another 6-year-old who finished third three-quarters of a length back of the sensational 3 year-old

Haddix on Injury Roster for 10 Days

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Harvey Haddix ace St Louis Cardinals' left hander, will miss only three pitching turns as the result of his injury here yesterday

"He'll be out about 10 days—three turns—" said Manager Eddie Stanky, as he watched the sophomore southpaw limp around the clubhouse "He was really lucky—and so were we"

Haddix was hit just below the kneecap by a vicious line drive off Joe Adcock's bat in the fourth inning of yesterday's game with Milwaukee

Haddix was carried off the field on a stretcher and rushed by police ambulance to a hospital where his injury was diagnosed as contusions and abrasions.

QUITS COACHING

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—George Pelton has asked to be relieved of his duties as basketball coach at nearby Austintown Fitch High School He plans to remain on the faculty but wants the extra time to work toward a master's degree

Aragon Given Bad Beating in Martinez Bout

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The shine was replaced by two shiners for Golden Boy Art Aragon today—and young Vince Martinez of New Jersey was certain for a high rating among the nation's welterweight boxers

The 25-year-old belter from Paterson, aiming for a shot at champion Kid Gavilan, handed the Los Angeles veteran a terrible beating last night to win an unanimous decision in 10 rounds

Aragon's face was a bloody mess He had slashes around both eyes which were almost shut tight, his nose was broken and his mouth was cut

Until tonight he was rated eighth nationally while Martinez was unranked But there was no question about the verdict.

Arro Topped By Telephone In Girls' Loop

Telephone Co. edged Arro Expasion Bolt, 12-11, in a Marion Girls Softball League tilt Wednesday night at the Marion Engineer Depot field.

The Telephone nine won the contest with a run in the last of the seventh. Vada Craven and Marlene Gamble formed the battery for the winners. Beverly Newell was the Arro starter and was relieved by Hoffman in the sixth. Barbara Newell was the catcher.

The other contest scheduled Wednesday night between Marion Power Shovel and Marion Industries was called off because Industries' girls were observing vacations this week. The game will be made up Thursday, July 8, at the Industries field.

Games next Wednesday, July 7, will pit Shovel against Telephone at the Depot field and Arro against Industries at the Industries diamond.

Godthaab, the capital of Greenland, has a population of 1,500.

Marion Teams Win Teen Tilts

Both Marion entries in the Marion County Teen League came through with victories in action last night.

The Marion Fraternal Order of Police squad blanked LaRue, 16-0, while the Marion Indians edged Green Camp, 3-2.

Gallimore hurled the shutout, a one-hitter, over LaRue. He struck out 10 and walked three over the five-inning route. It was called then due to the league 10-run rule.

The locals pounced on Isom, LaRue hurler, for eight hits and two runs in the third and seven in each of the next two frames. Isom struck out one while walking 10.

Burns and Messner both had two hits for the winners. Tate collected the only LaRue hit in the opening frame.

Single runs in the second, sixth and seventh frames gave the Marion Indians their victory over Green Camp.

Corbin was the Marion hurler, holding Green Camp to runs in the fourth and sixth frames on six hits. He fanned 13. Finch for Green Camp limited the locals to but four hits while striking out 10.

DISGUSTED BRITISHERS. Tony Pickard, left, 18, and Roger Becker, 20, show their disgust and disappointment after losing a point against Americans Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert in the men's doubles of the all-England tennis championships at Wimbledon. The young Britishers lost the match which was carried over from the day before because of darkness.

Wilhelm Nine, Hinton's Win in Little League

Hinton's and Wilhelm were National League winners last night in Little League games at Robert Scott Field.

Hinton's blanked Vance's 4-0, while Wilhelm disposed of Osgood, 9-6.

Johnnie Holmes limited Vance to three hits in hurling the opening game shutout. It was his third win of the season against a single loss. He struck out five and walked three.

The winners got four hits off Lefty Saunders, who went down to his second defeat. He has won two. Saunders fanned five while walking one.

Hinton's bunched all their hits in the third and fourth frames for the win. One run was netted in the third on one hit and three more in the next frame on three safeties.

Music, Kirby and Mann all cracked out doubles for the winners. Howison netted two of Vance's total of three hits.

Wilhelm scored early and coasted to its victory over Osgood in the nightcap.

The winners scored thrice in the first, twice in the second and two more times in the third to clinch the victory. Another run was scored in the fourth and the final tally came in the sixth.

Dan Wendell, the starter who was relieved by Scooter Bailey in the sixth, gained credit for the win, his first against no losses. The pair of hurlers held Osgood to six hits while striking out five and walking six. They were touched for runs in the first, third and fourth frames and three in the sixth.

Loser was Doug Beaver, now 1-3, who was touched for 11 safeties. He fanned 12 while walking three.

Rocky Evans led the Wilhelm hitting attack by crackig out a homer, his fourth of the season, in the first with two on. He added two more hits in his next three trips to the plate. Bailey smashed out three hits while Rip Ulery netted two, one a triple. Stu Flesher collected two of Osgood's six hits to lead the losers in hitting.

Little League officials today announced that next week's games would be moved back one day due to the July 5th holiday. Thus Monday's schedule will be played Tuesday, etc. The postponed game scheduled for Friday, July 9, will be played July 16.

Marion Youths May Perform In Ice League

Marion boys under 14 years of age may get a chance to play some "real big-time" ice hockey next December.

Start of a "Pee Wee League" between five Ohio cities including Marion was proposed at the annual meeting of the International Hockey League recently in Toledo.

Kenny Wilson, manager of the Troy Bruins, made the proposal and suggested that Pee Wee League teams be formed in Troy, Marion, Cincinnati, Toledo and Cleveland.

With the exception of Marion, the other four cities now have intramural hockey teams in operation, composed of boys under 14.

Whether or not the plan actually becomes a reality will depend on whether the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States decided to grant funds necessary for setting up the Pee Wee League.

Pete Hendy, of the Marion Barons explained that IHL teams all pay two per cent of their gate receipts into the AHA for the promotion of amateur hockey in the nation. Most of this money is now going elsewhere where active amateur hockey teams are in operation, he said.

The hope of the IHL teams is to bring some of the money contributed by them back to benefit youths in home cities of IHL teams. One purpose of the league would be to help stimulate interest in regular ice hockey in IHL towns.

As proposed by Wilson at Toledo, the Pee Wee League games would be played preliminary to regular league games. The league would also have a short schedule compared with the regular IHL schedule. Each of the Pee Wee teams might play a total of two games at home and two away or some such schedule as this, according to Hendy.

In addition, there would be regular play-offs for the league championship, trophies to winning teams. Statistics of each team and leading scorers would be maintained. "In short, the Pee Wee League would operate just like the regular league—except it would be on a miniature scale," Hendy added.

Present plan, providing the proposal is approved by AHA, is to organize a Marion team sometime before December and hold several practice sessions prior to the start of league play. Selection of players would be made in cooperation with local schools. Purpose of this would be to make certain each player maintains a high scholastic standing and that playing on the local team does not interfere with his school work, Hendy said.

Reds To Open Bid for Fourth Against Braves

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs had company in fifth place today as they moved in here for what they hoped would be a nice, quiet two-team battle for the fourth place spot in the National League.

The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the fourth place Braves yesterday to move into a tie with Cincinnati for fifth and they're both only a half-game behind the Braves.

The Cards and the Chicago Cubs had a single game today while the Reds and Braves lock in a twi-night doubleheader. Manager Birdie Tebbetts planned to open with Corky Valentine and Bud Podbielan as his pitchers while the Braves were scheduled to use Chet Nichols and Gene Conley.

The two games this evening will be the first of four tilts with the Braves and then the Rhinelanders will go back home for a series with the Cubs.

Of major importance to the Redlegs, however, is that of the 13 games remaining to be played before the All-Star game, eight will be with Milwaukee. So come time for that All-Star layoff there should be some rather definite indications as to whether Cincinnati will continue to be a first division threat.

The Reds were deflated somewhat last night when they dropped a 5-4 decision to Indianapolis of the American Association in an exhibition game at Indianapolis.

They were up against a hot ball club, however, because the Hoosiers are running away from the rest of the American Association. Even so, Cincinnati errors contributed heavily to the Indianapolis total. The Reds committed four miscues.

Gus Bell and Charlie Harmon hit home runs.

Marion Youths May Perform In Ice League

Marion boys under 14 years of age may get a chance to play some "real big-time" ice hockey next December.

Start of a "Pee Wee League" between five Ohio cities including Marion was proposed at the annual meeting of the International Hockey League recently in Toledo.

Kenny Wilson, manager of the Troy Bruins, made the proposal and suggested that Pee Wee League teams be formed in Troy, Marion, Cincinnati, Toledo and Cleveland.

With the exception of Marion, the other four cities now have intramural hockey teams in operation, composed of boys under 14.

Whether or not the plan actually becomes a reality will depend on whether the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States decided to grant funds necessary for setting up the Pee Wee League.

Pete Hendy, of the Marion Barons explained that IHL teams all pay two per cent of their gate receipts into the AHA for the promotion of amateur hockey in the nation. Most of this money is now going elsewhere where active amateur hockey teams are in operation, he said.

The hope of the IHL teams is to bring some of the money contributed by them back to benefit youths in home cities of IHL teams. One purpose of the league would be to help stimulate interest in regular ice hockey in IHL towns.

As proposed by Wilson at Toledo, the Pee Wee League games would be played preliminary to regular league games. The league would also have a short schedule compared with the regular IHL schedule. Each of the Pee Wee teams might play a total of two games at home and two away or some such schedule as this, according to Hendy.

In addition, there would be regular play-offs for the league championship, trophies to winning teams. Statistics of each team and leading scorers would be maintained. "In short, the Pee Wee League would operate just like the regular league—except it would be on a miniature scale," Hendy added.

Present plan, providing the proposal is approved by AHA, is to organize a Marion team sometime before December and hold several practice sessions prior to the start of league play. Selection of players would be made in cooperation with local schools. Purpose of this would be to make certain each player maintains a high scholastic standing and that playing on the local team does not interfere with his school work, Hendy said.

Reds To Open Bid for Fourth Against Braves

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs had company in fifth place today as they moved in here for what they hoped would be a nice, quiet two-team battle for the fourth place spot in the National League.

The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the fourth place Braves yesterday to move into a tie with Cincinnati for fifth and they're both only a half-game behind the Braves.

The Cards and the Chicago Cubs had a single game today while the Reds and Braves lock in a twi-night doubleheader. Manager Birdie Tebbetts planned to open with Corky Valentine and Bud Podbielan as his pitchers while the Braves were scheduled to use Chet Nichols and Gene Conley.

The two games this evening will be the first of four tilts with the Braves and then the Rhinelanders will go back home for a series with the Cubs.

Of major importance to the Redlegs, however, is that of the 13 games remaining to be played before the All-Star game, eight will be with Milwaukee. So come time for that All-Star layoff there should be some rather definite indications as to whether Cincinnati will continue to be a first division threat.

The Reds were deflated somewhat last night when they dropped a 5-4 decision to Indianapolis of the American Association in an exhibition game at Indianapolis.

They were up against a hot ball club, however, because the Hoosiers are running away from the rest of the American Association. Even so, Cincinnati errors contributed heavily to the Indianapolis total. The Reds committed four miscues.

Gus Bell and Charlie Harmon hit home runs.

Erie Captures First Round in Industrial Loop

Erie No. 1 captured the first round championship of Industrial League No. 1 in league softball action last night at Garfield Park.

The undefeated Railroadmen nipped Local 750, 4-3, to maintain their perfect league mark. In other Industrial League No. 1 activity, Marion Power Shovel stopped Marion Metal, 8-5, and Marion Engineer Depot mastered OSCO, 15-4.

Erie scored twice in the bottom of the seventh to give hurler Kunkle the decision. Both he and Taylor of the losers gave up five hits. The winners got two in the first on three hits, then netted two more in the seventh on a two-base error and a hit.

Local 750 scored its three runs in the sixth on four hits and an error. Rice had a pair of hits for Erie.

Wilcox fired a seven-hitter in hurling Marion Power Shovel to its win over Marion Metal. Three runs in the top of the seventh accounted for the Shovel victory margin. The winners had jumped off to a 5-0 bulge on a run in the first and fourth in the second but Marion Metal came back to knot the score with four runs in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Baker, Marion Metal hurler, was tapped for 14 hits by the Shovel. J. Higgins clouted a homer, two singles for the winners while F. Walters had three hits and L. Gruber and L. Watkins each two hits. Curren punched out two hits for the losers.

Norris held OSCO to three hits to lead Marion Engineer Depot to its win. The contest was shortened to five frames by the league 10-run rule when Marion Engineer Depot netted three runs in the bottom of the fifth.

The winners scored two runs in the first, one in the second and nine in a big third frame. OSCO was limited to a run in the second and three in the third.

D. West belted a pair of home runs for the winners while Lesser contributed another four-master to the attack. Norris had a triple and double. For the losers, J. Frank unloaded a three-run homer.

Three Seeded Netters Out in Cincinnati Play

CINCINNATI (AP) — Although the quarter finals bracket still isn't quite completed, three of the eight seeded players in the men's singles already have been eliminated in the 55th Tri-State tennis tournament.

The latest seeded star to find the going too rough was Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., the 1952 National Junior champion and third ranked in the tournament here. Frost was eliminated yesterday by 17-year-old Mike Green of Miami, Fla., 6-4, 7-5.

The last spot in the quarter finals was due to be filled today. Billy Talbert of New York, a former Davis Cupper from Cincinnati, was to make a belated appearance in the tournament and meet Rawdon Meyers of Cincinnati in his first match. If he wins that one, Talbert will battle Ed Rubinoff of Miami, Fla., for the last quarter final berth.

Although the defeat of Frost was yesterday's major unset, top seeded Straight Clark of Philadelphia had his hands full in getting by young Dave Harum of Miami, Fla., 11-9, 6-2.

Clark was to meet fifth seeded Allen Morris of Atlanta today. Morris was a 6-3, 6-4 winner yesterday over Don Fontana of Toronto, Canada.

Another match today will pit Fred Hagist of Berkeley, Calif., seeded No. 5, against Jerry Moss of Miami Beach, Fla., No. 7.

Cunningham Sparks Cards

St. Louis Rookie in Dream After Slugging Home Runs

By CHRIS EDMONDS

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Joe Cunningham, young St. Louis Cardinals first baseman who has hit three homers and driven in nine runs in two games as a major leaguer, is going to have to buy another pair of trousers.

"Man," the 22-year-old blond slugger said in the clubhouse here yesterday after cracking a pair off Warren Spahn, veteran Milwaukee Braves' left-hander, "this is just like a dream."

"I always wanted to be a big leaguer, but I had no idea it would come so soon. I left the minors in such a hurry I only brought along one pair of trousers. I guess I'm still in a sort of shock."

It was just two nights ago, after an International League doubleheader with Havana, Cuba, that Cunningham found out he was coming up to the Cardinals from their Rochester, N. Y., farm club.

"They told me that night, after we got through, that at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning I was to go up to the Cardinals," he said with a shy grin. "I had all my stuff at the cleaners and the only pants I've got are the ones I've been wearing."

Cunningham joined the Cardinals at Cincinnati Wednesday night three hours before game time after a bus and airplane trip and made a sensational debut, clouting a home run off Art Fowler and singling in five trips to the plate to drive in five runs.

Yesterday he faced Spahn, the National League's top southpaw a year ago, leading off the second inning. A left-handed hitter, Cunningham took one ball and then drove a 390-foot homer into the right field bleachers. He came up again in the third with Ray Jablonski and Rip Repulski on base and drove his second four-baser into the bleachers just inside the foul marker, about 350 feet.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING — Joe Cunningham, St. Louis Cardinals, hit two home runs and drove in four in his second major league game as the Cards beat Milwaukee, 9-1.

PITCHING—Johnny Sain, New York Yankees, allowed only one hit in three innings of relief, salvaging an 8-7 victory for New York over Boston.

Scientists estimate that if there were no control programs insects would destroy half of U.S. farm production.

A's Turn to Mayor To Help Increase Falling Attendance

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, scraping the bottom of the financial barrel to last out the season, have turned in desperation to the city's mayor for help in bolstering their attendance.

And Mayor Joseph S. Clark Jr. said today the problem is simple: If Quaker City residents want the franchise to stay in Philadelphia they've got to get out and see the A's play.

Now in their 54th year in Philadelphia, the Athletics have drawn only about 125,000 paid admissions for 34 home games. To break even this year the A's need at least a half million paid attendance. To keep their farm system operating, a minimum attendance of 750,000 is necessary.

Clark has called for a meeting on July 8, of 75 leading citizens from Philadelphia to form a "mayor's committee to keep the Athletics in Philadelphia."

Clevelander, Babe Zaharias Tied for Tournament Lead

PEABODY, Mass. (AP) — A confident Babe Zaharias entered the second round of the Women's National Open golf tournament today with the prediction: "I'm just liable to be going from here on in."

"She means," someone explained, "that she's going to win."

The drawling Babe was in a familiar position, tied for the lead with junior high school teacher Claire Doran of Cleveland at a par-matching 72 on the spongy Salem Country Club course.

Mrs. Zaharias, who amazed her huge gallery by using irons on her second shots where most of the other participants followed with woods, played clutch golf the last two holes to make par.

Lions Club Program

Galion Fourth of July Celebration Set Monday

GALION — Fireworks at 10 p.m. will climax an all-day program of events Monday, July 5, at Galion's first Fourth of July celebration for several years. The day's festivities are being sponsored by the Galion Lions Club, with Heise park as the center.

Getting off to a start with an ox roast at 11 a.m., the day's activities will be highlighted by three baseball games, tennis exhibition, horseshoe matches, lifesaving demonstration by the Red Cross, wrestling matches and fireworks.

HARRY ROGERS, president of the Lions Club, is general chairman for the day, and Cornelius Curran, finance chairman of the club, is program chairman.

The ox roast is a concession of the Galion Booster Club, and will be served all day with coffee, beginning at 11 a.m. Another concession of hot dogs, pop corn and soft drinks will be sponsored by the Little League baseball group.

First ballgame of the day will be a Little League event with the Perfection Steel Body team playing the Art Nicholls' team at 1 p.m. on the Little League diamond. Another game at 2:30 p.m., will be played between the Morrow County All-Stars and the Galion Junior Legion team.

THE TENNIS exhibition on the park courts and the horseshoe matches will be taking place simultaneously from 2 to 5 p.m., and the Red Cross Lifesaving demonstration is slated for 3 p.m. in the municipal pool. The third baseball game will be played at 5 p.m., between the Leesville Reds and the Galion All Stars.

An admission charge will be made for the wrestling matches. They are slated for 8 p.m., with reserved seats on the west football bleachers.

The main event will be between Don Eagle and Frankie Talaber. Preliminaries will be two matches of a girls' tag team, featuring Cora Combs and Ella Waldek versus China Myra and Dot Dotson.

SPECTATORS for the wrestling may remain in the bleachers to witness the fireworks which will be displayed on the east side of the football field. The fireworks will be free to the public.

All day long there will be pony rides and other rides for children.

Ticket sales for the wrestling matches are being handled by Clarenc Borg; Little League baseball game is in charge of George Joachim; Junior American Legion contest is being handled by the coach, Dick Kerin; and the All-Stars game at 5 p.m., is being handled by Don Rogers.

New Bloomington Celebration To Be Held on Staurday

Third annual Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the New Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department is planned for Saturday.

A fireworks display at 10:30 p.m. will climax the evening's program which gets under way at 6 p.m. with the serving of home-made ice cream, cake and pie.

Various games and other activities are planned for the children. The celebration will be held at "The Four Corners," south of the village on State Route 95. Plenty of parking space is available, firemen say.

Proceeds of the celebration are used to maintain the volunteer department. Ellsworth Drake is the fire chief and Robert Corbin his assistant.

In case of rain Saturday, the celebration will be postponed until Sunday at the same time.

Radio and Television

By John Crosby

Mirroring the Actual Event

"Television is a means whereby we may see and hear the main events occurring many miles away at the actual moment they are taking place. It is as simple as that. Everything that happens is material for television. . . it seems, the television screen becomes an alternative to the cinema screen in that new films are projected directly on to it, just as plays come directly from actual stage performances . . . We must never forget and the film quickie made for the commercial TV market are only substitutes. The true province of TV lies in the mirroring of the actual event."

J. CROSBY

SO WROTE William Salter, radio and TV columnist for Britain's highly respected "New Statesman and Nation." It's a rather extreme view but one that I harbor a grudging respect for. If "studio reconstruction" — I guess he means anything that is rehearsed in a studio — and films constitute only substitutes, then we in America are indeed living in an age of substitutions.

This summer, when practically the only thing you can look at are kinescopes of old shows performed last winter, you might say we are living in an age of repeat substitutions.

I don't know that I can go all the way with Salter on his thesis. There's a place for "studio reconstructions," there's a place for film. But there's no doubt that the "mirroring of the actual event" is a special province of television for which we had high hopes which are being steadily disappointed.

RECENTLY, MILLIONS of people sat glued to their sets for the hearings. Now some of the deeper thinkers are engaged in debate as to whether any more hearings should be televised. I don't — at this time—want to get into the merits of that debate. The simple fact is, though, that people like to see events that contain some element of surprise. Some of the most exciting things I have ever seen on TV have been baseball games.

And they're gradually disappearing. In the National League today, only New York and Chicago have full baseball coverage. Philadelphia and Cincinnati have only sporadic coverage and Milwaukee, St. Louis and Pittsburgh have none at all. College football has practically disappeared from TV screens, now that the NAA permits only one game on Saturdays—and that by no means the most interesting.

IN THE EARLY DAYS of TV, we had man-on-the-street interviews, we had dog shows, we had hockey games, we had anything the TV boys could get a camera focused on—largely because they didn't have any studio show in their stead. Mostly, all this live coverage of actual events has vanished or is vanishing. Yet, the public thirst for it has not. I'm convinced that one of the reasons for the whopping and unexpected success of Edward R. Murrow's "Person to Person" is that this is live coverage of real people in their real homes.

The absence of the actual event from TV is not altogether the broadcaster's faults. He isn't televising some ball games because he isn't allowed in. But, on the other hand, he is not exploring—and sometimes seems to have forgotten entirely — the promise and excitement of live coverage of actual events.

This would take some thinking (as Mr. Murrow and his produced Fred Friendly did on "Person to Person"). But it mustn't be assumed that, simply because a baseball team bars the TV cameras, there is nothing else live and immediate worth covering.

I'M PLEASED TO READ in Television magazine that Leland Hayward, who will produce NBC's 13 color "spectaculars" next season, is interested "almost 100 per cent" in live television. "To him the single element which television holds above all other entertainment or communicative media is immediacy," the magazine reports.

"Producing live TV is like living dangerously," Hayward said. "It's exciting. Performers perform better. It's dramatic to know that what you're producing is being sent out over the air this very second."

It's exciting and dramatic at home, too.

Radio and Television

By John Crosby

Mirroring the Actual Event

"Television is a means whereby we may see and hear the main events occurring many miles away at the actual moment they are taking place. It is as simple as that. Everything that happens is material for television. . . it seems, the television screen becomes an alternative to the cinema screen in that new films are projected directly on to it, just as plays come directly from actual stage performances . . . We must never forget and the film quickie made for the commercial TV market are only substitutes. The true province of TV lies in the mirroring of the actual event."

SO WROTE William Salter, radio and TV columnist for Britain's highly respected "New Statesman and Nation." It's a rather extreme view but one that I harbor a grudging respect for. If "studio reconstruction" — I guess he means anything that is rehearsed in a studio — and films constitute only substitutes, then we in America are indeed living in an age of substitutions.

This summer, when practically the only thing you can look at are kinescopes of old shows performed last winter, you might say we are living in an age of repeat substitutions.

I don't know that I can go all the way with Salter on his thesis. There's a place for "studio reconstructions," there's a place for film. But there's no doubt that the "mirroring of the actual event" is a special province of television for which we had high hopes which are being steadily disappointed.

RECENTLY, MILLIONS of people sat glued to their sets for the hearings. Now some of the deeper thinkers are engaged in debate as to whether any more hearings should be televised. I don't — at this time—want to get into the merits of that debate. The simple fact is, though, that people like to see events that contain some element of surprise. Some of the most exciting things I have ever seen on TV have been baseball games.

And they're gradually disappearing. In the National League today, only New York and Chicago have full baseball coverage. Philadelphia and Cincinnati have only sporadic coverage and Milwaukee, St. Louis and Pittsburgh have none at all. College football has practically disappeared from TV screens, now that the NAA permits only one game on Saturdays—and that by no means the most interesting.

IN THE EARLY DAYS of TV, we had man-on-the-street interviews, we had dog shows, we had hockey games, we had anything the TV boys could get a camera focused on—largely because they didn't have any studio show in their stead. Mostly, all this live coverage of actual events has vanished or is vanishing. Yet, the public thirst for it has not. I'm convinced that one of the reasons for the whopping and unexpected success of Edward R. Murrow's "Person to Person" is that this is live coverage of real people in their real homes.

The absence of the actual event from TV is not altogether the broadcaster's faults. He isn't televising some ball games because he isn't allowed in. But, on the other hand, he is not exploring—and sometimes seems to have forgotten entirely — the promise and excitement of live coverage of actual events.

This would take some thinking (as Mr. Murrow and his produced Fred Friendly did on "Person to Person"). But it mustn't be assumed that, simply because a baseball team bars the TV cameras, there is nothing else live and immediate worth covering.

I'M PLEASED TO READ in Television magazine that Leland Hayward, who will produce NBC's 13 color "spectaculars" next season, is interested "almost 100 per cent" in live television. "To him the single element which television holds above all other entertainment or communicative media is immediacy," the magazine reports.

"Producing live TV is like living dangerously," Hayward said. "It's exciting. Performers perform better. It's dramatic to know that what you're producing is being sent out over the air this very second."

It's exciting and dramatic at home, too.

KILL CHINCH BUGS IN CORN!

low dosage . . . low cost . . .

with dieldrin

(say "deel-drin")

THE WATCHWORD in the corn belt right now is—"dieldrin stops the chinch bugs cold." That goes whether they are just moving into the outer rows or if they have already spread throughout the field. Dieldrin gets them.

A few ounces of dieldrin per acre, in enough water to cover, does the job. Use either aircraft or ground spray equipment.

Long lasting—Dieldrin keeps on giving top control for many days . . . and you'll get any armyworms, grasshoppers or cutworms in the field at the same time.

Dieldrin is tops for barrier strips, if chinch bugs haven't moved into the corn. Call your insecticide dealer for dieldrin . . . be ready!

Detective's Ruse Saves New York Woman From Leap

NEW YORK (AP)—A detective's ruse saved a middle-aged woman who, for an hour and a half, perched on a fifth-story hotel window ledge and threatened to jump.

Some 5,000 onlookers stood by as Mrs. Marion Oakes, about 50, was coaxed to safety last night. She said she was despondent over the death of her husband.

Police pleaded with her without success as she sat on the ledge of the Hotel Endicott screaming, "Gongsters are after me."

Finally, Detective Bob McDonald put on a white shirt backward, which in the darkness resembled a doctor's tunic, and keeping up a stream of pseudo-medical talk, persuaded her to step off the ledge "only for one minute."

She was then grabbed by another policeman. The woman was taken to a hospital for observation.

KILL CHINCH BUGS IN CORN!

low dosage . . . low cost . . .

with dieldrin

(say "deel-drin")

THE WATCHWORD in the corn belt right now is—"dieldrin stops the chinch bugs cold." That goes whether they are just moving into the outer rows or if they have already spread throughout the field. Dieldrin gets them.

A few ounces of dieldrin per acre, in enough water to cover, does the job. Use either aircraft or ground spray equipment.

Long lasting—Dieldrin keeps on giving top control for many days . . . and you'll get any armyworms, grasshoppers or cutworms in the field at the same time.

Dieldrin is tops for barrier strips, if chinch bugs haven't moved into the corn. Call your insecticide dealer for dieldrin . . . be ready!

YES, SIR, I DID! I BEEN GETTIN' UP A CONSCIENCE ABOUT YOU! .. NYZ OLSON TOLD ME ALL ABOUT HOW YOU TWO ALMOST GOT YOURSELVES MARRIED ONCE!

Horseshoe Nails Used by Foundry

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Though horseshoe nails aren't used so much anymore to hold shoes on horses' hooves, they are employed for other purposes which makes their continued manufacture a necessity

At the annual Foundry Show and Congress here several varieties of horseshoe nails, with their large heads and long, tapered shanks were on display

It was revealed that they still are used by foundrymen They are placed in molds where the heavy head absorbs heat and the long shank carries it off, allowing thick parts of castings to cool somewhat faster to stay abreast of the cooling rate of the thinner sections.

Scientists now believe that gravity results from the fact that space is warped in the vicinity of a massive object in some dimension higher than the familiar three.

Horseshoe Nails Used by Foundry

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Though horseshoe nails aren't used so much anymore to hold shoes on horses' hooves, they are employed for other purposes which makes their continued manufacture a necessity

At the annual Foundry Show and Congress here several varieties of horseshoe nails, with their large heads and long, tapered shanks were on display

It was revealed that they still are used by foundrymen They are placed in molds where the heavy head absorbs heat and the long shank carries it off, allowing thick parts of castings to cool somewhat faster to stay abreast of the cooling rate of the thinner sections.

Scientists now believe that gravity results from the fact that space is warped in the vicinity of a massive object in some dimension higher than the familiar three.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—A brisk rally turned the stock market around today after a quietly lower opening and by early afternoon gains in leaders ranged from one to as much as four points.

Volume increased as the buying came into the market.

Du Pont, which has bounced up and down for a good part of the week, led the advancing shares with a gain of 4⅜ at 139. General Motors climbed 2¼ to 76¼.

Mostly higher groups included the steels, chemicals, motors, televisions and coppers. Aircrafts, rails, rubbers and electrical equipments were mixed.

Advancing stocks included Celanese, Western Auto Supply, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Boeing, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Santa Fe, Mathieson Chemical, Union Carbide, Raytheon, Alcoa, J.P.Stevens, General Electric and International Harvester.

Coca-Cola International traded for the first time since May 4, off 27½ points at 930.

The rally caught brokers by surprise. They had looked for a quiet pre-holiday market with possibly lower prices because of unfavorable Senate action on proposals to ease taxes on dividend income.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—A brisk rally turned the stock market around today after a quietly lower opening and by early afternoon gains in leaders ranged from one to as much as four points.

Volume increased as the buying came into the market.

Du Pont, which has bounced up and down for a good part of the week, led the advancing shares with a gain of 4⅜ at 139. General Motors climbed 2¼ to 76¼.

Mostly higher groups included the steels, chemicals, motors, televisions and coppers. Aircrafts, rails, rubbers and electrical equipments were mixed.

Advancing stocks included Celanese, Western Auto Supply, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Boeing, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Santa Fe, Mathieson Chemical, Union Carbide, Raytheon, Alcoa, J.P.Stevens, General Electric and International Harvester.

Coca-Cola International traded for the first time since May 4, off 27½ points at 930.

The rally caught brokers by surprise. They had looked for a quiet pre-holiday market with possibly lower prices because of unfavorable Senate action on proposals to ease taxes on dividend income.

Smokers Still Puffing

Tobacco Sales Stay High Despite Medical Reports

By The Associated Press

Most of the country's cigarette smokers still are puffing away—though apparently with some restraining anxieties—despite medical reports the habit might hasten their death

This was the situation indicated today by checks with tobacco wholesalers and retailers in more than a score of major cities across the nation

Most of them said they had detected no change in cigarette sales since an American Cancer Society report 10 days ago that average cigarette users 50 to 70 die sooner, mainly of heart attacks or cancer

'Smokers seem generally complacent about it' said a San Francisco wholesaler "They figure why worry when the hydrogen bomb is liable to snuff out their lives any how someday'

HOWEVER THERE were some reports of sales drops amounting to as much as 25 per cent along with other signs some smokers were disturbed A change to filter-tipped cigarettes was a wide trend

Among 75 sources, some of them representing chains with hundreds of outlets 52 said cigarette sales had remained unchanged, 15 reported slumps usually slight, and 7 reported sales increases

"The scare has just switched them around to filtered cigarettes" said a Dallas wholesaler

We also sell more pipes than ever before but there's no real decline in cigarette sales

People just fuss raise hell buy pipes and then go right back to cigarettes'

The survey gave no general evidence of a big run on chewing tobacco cigars snuff or pipes as a substitute for cigarettes

Distributors in Washington D C reported

'The demand for pipes pipe tobacco and cigars has risen slightly'

INDICATIONS OF A switch was to filter tipped long cigarettes came from dealers in nearly every city

'More filtered smokes are off setting any loss in sale of regular brands' said wholesalers in Raleigh N C

Cigarette holders also were getting popular

Said one of Connecticut's largest retailers

'We've sold more filter type cigarette holders during the past year than in the history of the company People are looking for all kinds of ways to continue smoking to avoid any harmful effects"

Many sources said it was too soon to gauge the effects of the latest medical report accurately

'Dealers are imagining all sorts of things from boom to bust before the statistics are in' said a spokesman for the National Assn of Tobacco Distributors, which includes 3 033 wholesalers

'Actually it will be impossible to determine reliably what the effects are if any, until the middle of July'

"The report has probably created a flash-in-the-pan reaction' said an Albany N Y, wholesaler 'But the public will resume normal smoking as people have done after other such scare reports'

Said a Dallas Secretary 'I might as well die happy'

Distributors in Washington D C reported

'The demand for pipes pipe tobacco and cigars has risen slightly'

INDICATIONS OF A switch was to filter tipped long cigarettes came from dealers in nearly every city

'More filtered smokes are off setting any loss in sale of regular brands' said wholesalers in Raleigh N C

Cigarette holders also were getting popular

Said one of Connecticut's largest retailers

'We've sold more filter type cigarette holders during the past year than in the history of the company People are looking for all kinds of ways to continue smoking to avoid any harmful effects"

Many sources said it was too soon to gauge the effects of the latest medical report accurately

'Dealers are imagining all sorts of things from boom to bust before the statistics are in' said a spokesman for the National Assn of Tobacco Distributors, which includes 3 033 wholesalers

'Actually it will be impossible to determine reliably what the effects are if any, until the middle of July'

"The report has probably created a flash-in-the-pan reaction' said an Albany N Y, wholesaler 'But the public will resume normal smoking as people have done after other such scare reports'

Said a Dallas Secretary 'I might as well die happy'

Divorce Settlement Snarled Over Who Is To Mow Grass

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Wanda Cholewa, 35, got a home, custody of her three children and $28 a week for their support.

But until her husband had the lawn mowed she refused to sign a separation agreement for a divorce.

"He has a power mower," she told Common Pleas Judge Frank J. Merrick. "He took it with him when he left last February."

Her husband Leo, 32, a forging company foreman, wanted no part of the lawn cutting. It was two acres of land and she had the house. Let her mow the grass, he contended.

Finally, to end the stalemate, Judge Merrick suggested that Cholewa give her $100 to have the job done. He consented and Mrs. Cholewa signed the agreement.

The divorce was granted on grounds of gross neglect of duty.

Mail Service on Sunday Paid for by Villagers

SEVEN SPRINGS, N. C. (AP) — Sunday mail service will be resumed here July 18.

In what the Post Office Department described as an economy measure, the service was suspended last month.

Then the townspeople got together and raised $136, the annual cost of the service, which they sent to Washington.

It was returned today, along with a letter from F. B. Davis, District mail supervisor at Norfolk, Va., reinstating the service.

Deputies Weren't Fooled

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies didn't believe the signs on the barrels hidden in woods near here. So they went ahead and tested the barrels' contents.

It was mash — the kind used to make liquor.

The signs read: "Poison—Cotton Molasses."

Prisoner Gets Lesson in Law

Providence Judge Notes Wrong Petition

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Gerald Mastracchio, 31, serving 15 years for attempted robbery, got a lesson in law yesterday from Judge Fred B. Perkins.

Serving as his own attorney, Mastracchio went before Superior Court with a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for his release from prison.

He said two other men had confessed the attempted robbery for which he is serving time so he should be freed.

Judge Perkins explained to Mastracchio he drafted the wrong petition because he was not attacking the legality of the trial but was, in effect, claiming new evidence. What he should have brought, the judge said, was "a writ of error corham nobis."

Mastracchio went back to prison, presumably to draft a new petition.

Juggler Fights Lions in Bid To Aid Friend

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Eric Drosdsky is a circus juggler who is scared of animals. But last night he leaped into the lion cage and fought desperately for the life of trainer William Coetzee, his best friend.

Women screamed and fled from the tent when one of the six performing lions turned on Coetzee as he was putting the animal through its paces. As all six lions pounced, Drosdsky rushed into the ring. With a chair, he tried to draw the raging beats toward himself.

The lions clawed the trainer. Then they chased the juggler until ringmaster Dennis Wood joined him with a club. Together they held the beasts at bay and dragged Coetzee out.

The trainer, badly mauled, died three hours later. Drosdsky, meanwhile, had gone on with his own juggling act.

Engineers Ready To Start Work on Big Ohio River Dam

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Army engineers "will start right away" on preliminaries for a new $47 million Ohio River super dam at nearby Stratton.

J. A. Neill, chief of the engineer's office at Pittsburgh, said that today after he was informed President Eisenhower had signed a harbors and improvements bill which includes a million dollars to get the project under way.

Neill said the first steps would be to acquire 63 properties—most residential—at Stratton and Empire.

He predicted construction would start within a year and should be completed by the end of 1958.

The high-lift stationary dam eight miles south of East Liverpool would replace three dams built between 1900 and 1905.

Baltimore Man Gets 18 Years in Wife's Shooting

The 23-year-old mother of two children was fatally shot in the head last January. Kellar said he was embracing her and stroking her hair with a hand that held a pistol.

He said the gun was discharged accidentally. Kellar, 24, is formerly from Parsons, W. Va.

ACCIDENTS KILL 2

CINCINNATI (AP)—Industrial accidents caused two deaths yesterday in the Greater Cincinnati area.

Harry Rowell, 51, of Covington, Ky., was killed near New Richmond as he fell from a ladder after being struck by a piece of iron while working on a construction project. Harvey Payne, 44, of Cincinnati was suffocated by powdered milk as an automatic conveyor started accidentally.

Death Claims Noted Tobacco Auctioneer

ROBERSONVILLE, N. C. (AP) — F. E. Boone Sr., the man who made familiar to America the chant of the tobacco auctioneer, died at his home yesterday.

The 61-year-old Winchester, Ky., native had spent 40 years as a tobacco auctioneer and gentleman farmer. He died of heart disease.

He appeared in live broadcasts of a national network from 1937 to 1951, performing the auctioneer's chant.

Inner Tubes Face State Park Ban as Aid for Swimmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Are automobile inner-tubes going the way of the dodo bird, the gas lamp and one-run baseball games?

The versatile old air-filled doughnut appears to be giving way before the relentless march of progress.

Not only have tire companies taken more kindly to the new tubeless tires but it looks like the state Division of Parks may soon outlaw the faithful inner tube as a swimming device.

A proposed regulation for the July 27 public hearings on state parks would ban the use of devices used to keep persons afloat unless the devices are capable of being securely fastened to the person.

The poor old inner tube was never built for anything more than supporting a car on a sea of air. Parks officials feel the tube can't prevent youngsters from slipping through it into deep water.

Other expected proposals are:

To prohibit the use in state parks of any water craft made of canvas, rubber, synthetic rubber or vinyl plastic.

To prohibit the use of any water craft under 10 feet in length.

To prohibit any person operating a water craft containing a sanitary system from discharging wastes into the water.

Juggler Fights Lions in Bid To Aid Friend

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Eric Drosdsky is a circus juggler who is scared of animals. But last night he leaped into the lion cage and fought desperately for the life of trainer William Coetzee, his best friend.

Women screamed and fled from the tent when one of the six performing lions turned on Coetzee as he was putting the animal through its paces. As all six lions pounced, Drosdsky rushed into the ring. With a chair, he tried to draw the raging beats toward himself.

The lions clawed the trainer. Then they chased the juggler until ringmaster Dennis Wood joined him with a club. Together they held the beasts at bay and dragged Coetzee out.

The trainer, badly mauled, died three hours later. Drosdsky, meanwhile, had gone on with his own juggling act.

Engineers Ready To Start Work on Big Ohio River Dam

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Army engineers "will start right away" on preliminaries for a new $47 million Ohio River super dam at nearby Stratton.

J. A. Neill, chief of the engineer's office at Pittsburgh, said that today after he was informed President Eisenhower had signed a harbors and improvements bill which includes a million dollars to get the project under way.

Neill said the first steps would be to acquire 63 properties—most residential—at Stratton and Empire.

He predicted construction would start within a year and should be completed by the end of 1958.

The high-lift stationary dam eight miles south of East Liverpool would replace three dams built between 1900 and 1905.

He said the gun was discharged accidentally. Kellar, 24, is formerly from Parsons, W. Va.

Now They Save Everything

Whenever it is time again to think about the Declaration of Independence, a secondary thought intrudes itself.

Are the important documents of the future going to be handled better than they were handled in the past

Today, what happened to the Declaration of Independence could not happen because now they preserve all documents carefully in a separate department of archives. For more than a century, the Declaration was shuffled in and out of drawers, pigeonholes and boxes until by 1894 it was so faded and dog-eared it was almost worthless.

Beginning that year, both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution were given special care. Today, they are exhibited in cases filled with inert gas, and the cases are lowered into vaults each night. But there still is that question about important documents of the future.

When the time comes to look at historic documents from the 20th century during and after the 21st century, will anyone know where to find them among the millions of scraps of paper now filed away conscientiously each year in the federal archives

The Good Old Summertime

There is a discussion about the good old summertime that goes like this:

A says to B: Wouldn't it be wonderful if the good old summertime lasted all year—no more winter, no more spring, no more fall, just the good old summertime?

B replies to A: No, as a matter of fact, it wouldn't be wonderful at all. It would be a pain in the neck. I personally have all the good old summertime I can stand by the last week in September and am ready to go back to work.

A then retorts to B: I am not that fond of work, myself, but tastes differ. Things are pretty grim when the only way anyone can be made to feel like working is to live in a climate so disagreeable that people must work to forget their troubles.

Whereupon B makes this rejoinder to A: I did not say I work to forget my troubles. I work because I feel like working when the temperature drops and do not feel like working when it is high. If the good old summertime lasted too long, things would go to the dogs. It's variety in climate that's good for people.

And so on.

The discussion never gets anywhere, but it never stops. It's going strong again in 1954—now that the good old summertime is here again.

Help for Drug Addicts

The odds are against a proposal made before the American Medical Association to furnish low-cost drugs to addicts while encouraging them to overcome their habit. The moral problem involved is ticklish.

But the proposal would very nearly solve the two toughest problems of drug addiction.

The first is the problem of salvaging the addicts before they become public charges either through illness or the commission of crimes to obtain money to buy drugs.

The second is the problem of keeping the fantastic amounts of money which the dope habit yields out of the unscrupulous hands of the promoters of the dope trade.

Besides homegrown organizers of vice who prosper from dope peddling are the exporters of the opium which is the source of most drug addiction.

Nearly all opium in the dope trade is grown in Communist China, which has been shown by reliable testimony to be promoting drug addiction ruthlessly and systematically.

Any method for making low-cost drugs available to addicts while encouraging them to rehabilitate themselves would be a body blow at the primary source of income for the Communist conspiracy.

Production Meter

The Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production is the nearest thing in the economic world to a meter for measuring the volume of industrial output.

Its two-point rise during May has special significance because that is not what customarily happens to the index in May.

In 1952 there was a one-point fall. In 1953 there was only a one-point rise. A two-point rise in a year when there is widespread concern about which direction the industrial trend will take is one more of the signs Dr. Burns, the official White House economist was referring to a few days ago when he explained why he thinks the trend is in the right direction.

The index of industrial production is based on 1947-1949 as the base period, representing 100. The all-time peak production was reached in May last year and duplicated in July, after a slight dip in June; the index was 137 in those two high months a year ago.

After July, it fell month by month until it was down to 123 in March and April this year. It is starting to rise again now. If the expectation of a further rise is borne out by the index for June, it will be one more bit of evidence that an economic readjustment has been survived without severe effect.

New Washington Charter

By David Lawrence

Sincere, Bipartisan U.S. Foreign Policy Vital

Words, just words? Or basic principles of morality in the conduct of world affairs?

These are the two possible impressions which a cynic or an idealist, respectively, can derive from a reading of the joint statement by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill.

There is every reason to accept the words as a new "Washington Charter" and as an inspiring step along the difficult road of present-day relations between allies.

Some significant things r e a l l y have been proclaimed

THEY CAN BE summarized thus:

1. America and Britain hold out the hand of friendship to all nations "which by solemn pledge and confirming deeds show themselves desirous of participating in a just and fair peace." This reaffirms the American position and, by the emphasis on "deeds," shows Soviet Russia the way to peace.

2. The principle of self - government is upheld and "colonialism" in its worst sense is repudiated, because Britain and America will strive only "by every peaceful means to secure the independence of all countries whose peoples desire and are capable of sustaining an independent existence."

What is the good of granting independence to nations not ready for it and which can become the prey of a Communist aggressor?

That's a question America has asked before but has never been so clearly answered as now.

3. America and Britain continue their support of the United Nations and of existing international organizations for common protection and security, and they "urge the establishment and maintenance of such associatinos of nations as will best, in their respective regions, preserve the peace and independence of the peoples living there."

This gives renewed endorsement to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the organization of American States. It also pronounces a blessing on associations like the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization that may be created in the future.

4. America a n d Britain will "with our friends" develop a n d maintain the spiritual, economic and military strength necessary to pursue the peaceful purposes and attain the objectives enumerated in the new charter. Every means will be sought to promote "t h e fuller and freer interchange among us (that is, among our allies) of goods and services which will benefit all participants."

THESE PRINCIPLES m i g h t perhaps be regrettably disregarded in the interest of national expediency some day but, having been written now explicitly and implicitly in the form of an American-British agreement at the highest level, they take on a solemnity which will not make easy in the future any violation of the pledges given.

The written communique tells of high purposes and reflects an atmosphere of cordiality and understanding. There remain differences of approach and emphasis.

Britain still feels inclined to deal with Red China but the so - called Locarno idea of a non - aggression pact is gone.

American spokesmen made it clear that the United States couldn't agree to what is called the "status quo" in the world — the confirmation of existing seizures or controls by Communist imperialism or upholding the jurisdiction of colonial powers in every case.

The President and Secretary Dulles took the sound position that America isn't ready to sign any treaty obligating this country either to fight a war to alter the existing order in any country or to fight a war to preserve that status.

This made a "non - aggression' pact wholly illogical, and there is evidence the British visitors in the end saw the matter the same way as do the American government officials.

TIME WILL TELL whether the renewed efforts by Britain at conciliating the Soviets will bear fruit. Meantime, it is essential that both political parties within the United States be united on foreign policy.

It is unfortunate that the Democratic leaders, who themselves engaged in a merciless attack on Secretary Dulles when he first came back from Geneva, now should complain when Vice President Nixon answers them in kind.

A glance back at the newspaper clippings will reveal that Truman, Acheson, Harriman, and certain senators and representatives l e t loose a partisan barrage at the very moment when the Indochina crisis was at its most delicate stage.

It is not surprising that v i c e President Nixon last Saturday in a political address pointed out that the troubles accumulated under the Democratic administration, starting with its withdrawal of moral support from Nationalist China at a critical moment which led to the loss of China and the ultimate buildup of Red China as the aggressor in Indochina.

Now that the partisans on each side have had their say, it is time to call quits and really make a sincere effort to carry on a bipartisan foreign policy.

Frying Pan Project Hot Colorado Issue

By Raymond Moley

GRANBY, Colo.

All Colorado is divided into at least two parts by great mountain ranges. Its people at the moment also are divided by a controversy of very serious proportions. It concerns water — a matter of life or death out here.

At present the major source of this controversy centers u p o n what is known as the Fryingpan-Arkansas transmountain diversion project.

This project is now before Congress for authorization. It has the blessing of the administration. It has been approved by the House committee. It may pass both Houses this session.

Briefly, the project would involve building a series of channels and tunnels high on the west slope of the Rockies, which would collect water from the headwaters of the Fryingpan, a tributary of the Roaring Fork, which flows into the Colorado at Glenwood Springs.

THE DIVERTED water would be p o u r e d into the Arkansas near Leadville and would pass through various power dams and into municipal w a t e r reservoirs and irrigation projects down the river.

I have discussed this project in these articles before, once three years ago in a piece written at Aspen. In the years since, there have been many new developments, some of which make it almost unbelieveable that this administration has taken up the battle for the plan.

In the hearings in 1953 there appeared a remarkably w e l l - informed witness against the project, John B. Barnard, an attorney in Granby. He appeared as the representative of p r o p e r t y owners and water users directly concerned on the western slope.

FOR MANY YEARS Barnard's practice has been in reclamation matters, and his arguments before the committee proved him to be one of the few Americans outside the government who is thoroughly conversant with reclamation and its implications.

I made it a point on this expedition among a number of reclamation projects in the West to talk with him about the Fryingpan matter and its broader consequences.

Barnard's major contentions concerning the Fryingpan project are That it ignores the future demands of a potentially great industrial development in Western Colorado,

That this project, with others of which it is the forerunner, would deplete the supply of water to which the west slope is entitled,

That it would supply water to the Arkansas River which t h a t river, if properly regulated, could supply for itself,

And, if I understand him correctly, the subsidy which it would supply to the lands irrigated in the Arkansas Valley would be unreasonable and unfair to the taxpayers of the nation.

Volumes could be written on this subject — volumes, I m a y add, which every taxpayer might well ponder — but I shall refer here to only one of Barnard's points and in another article discuss the others.

THE RICHEST and most extensive oil shale deposits in the United States are in Colorado, and at a point near Rifle a government pilot plant has been operating for some time.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines estimates that 100,000,000 barrels of shale oil can be produced from each square mile of the richer parts of the deposits, and that there are altogether 2,500 square miles in the shale area. That means possible mining operations for hundreds of years.

Great quantities of gas would be a by-product, and this and other available products would make possible a great chemical industry in the region, in addition to that which would extract and refine the oil.

It therefore becomes a matter of national importance whether such an industrial development should be endangered by a shortage of water, which would be placed at great cost on agricultural land, raising crops which will probably not be needed.

Moreover, as every newspaper reader knows, there have been found great deposits of uranium in the upper basin of the Colorado—running down from Rifle into Utah on the west and New Mexico on the south.

The industrial possibilities of this should be obvious.

Up to the Minute

By TRUMAN TWILL

Swiss watchmakers keep sending literature to this department, obviously in hope of making it understand why there should be no increase in the tariff on Swiss watches. That will be taken under advisement at some later time. After someone has told me more about reciprocity.

Right now, it is a matter of increasing significance to me that I still do not own a watch, although approaching the age when tradition says the faithful retainer should be given a watch to time his final slide down the nether slope.

This has been a matter of interest to me for the last 25 years—that in a society where nobody is anybody without a watch it has been possible to bluff things through without ever owning one in working order for more than a few months at a time.

The only two watches I ever possessed conked out after a few months of use and were put away in bureau drawers and never worn again or missed. Yet, somehow or other I have earned a reputation for punctuality and have lived a well ordered existence.

Moreover—and this is said with proper humility—I usually h a v e known what time it was, chronologically. This has been due not so much to a natural sense of time as to the ability to glance at a clock and to retain the information gained thereby.

One of the odd behaviorisms of people who own and use watches of their own is to look at them intently without retaining the information longer than is required to wonder what time it is again. If it is 8 p.m. at one instant, it is inevitably going to be a little after 8 p.m. a few instants later. Yet, a chronic timepiece looker w i l l look every minute from 8 to 8:30, if waiting for something to happen, and never seem to remember what his timepiece said the last time he looked at it.

It is possible to live satisfactorily in this country without a watch, leaving the ownership and care of these sensitive gadgets to those who enjoy owning them and paying for the upkeep. And that brings up something about timepieces which once was commented on here and should be commented on again, in the light of new developments.

On a previous occasion, it was pointed out that the clocks installed in automobiles as optional equipment never seemed to run much past the date for the payment of the fourth installment. S i n c e then, two auto clocks in two second-hand cars have made a liar out of me. Both kept perfect time while the automobiles to which they were attached were running. One performed almost flawlessly while the automobile was standing still. The other was not so good in these circumstances.

On occasions when electrical storms, high winds and skidding trucks cut off the electrical current which measures all the time in our household, these auto clocks were consulted to put the house clock back on the beam.

Someone has been making progress with auto clocks.

Maybe the Swiss watchmakers would like to know about this. It would be tactful to say nothing to them about not owning a watch in running order—Swiss, Peruvian, early American or any other kind. If word gets out that it is posible to live happily without owning a watch, it won't be just Swiss watchmakers who will be sending literature.

Sad Reports Inevitable

By MARK DANA

As holidays approach, it is customary for public officials, editors, speakers and others to step up their pleas for careful driving, and to remind that because of the natural exuberance of the holiday spirit and the increased number of cars on the highways, the dangers of accidents are multiplied.

Those familiar warnings have been voiced time after time, including the period just before the Fourth of July weekend. The exhortations will be repeated prior to the Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas periods, in phrases similar to those heard at Easter, Memorial Day and other special occasions.

Yet if tradition is upheld, three hundred or maybe five hundred, or more, persons over the U. S. will be reported during the next few days as having perished during the Independence Day outings, many from car accidents, some from drowning, others from other holiday mishaps.

A special tragedy about such death and injury tolls is that very often the persons hurt or killed have, indeed, resolved to be particularly careful, but have been the victims of carelessness by others. It is not true that reckless drivers invariably bump themselves off; it is when they themselves escape injury after causing disaster to others that resentment soars.

Thus, as sad reports following the "glorious Fourth" come in, they will tell of many drivers who truly were particularly cautious but, with their passengers, suffered because other drivers were inconsiderate. The periodic pleas and warnings somehow are ignored by the very persons who should heed them, and the fearful highway slaughter which every year wipes out the equivalent of a fairly large city will not be abated until both law and public opinion keep incurably reckless persons from driving at all.

Target Practice

In 1897 he came to Marion and five years later sold out his interest. He then purchased the grocery store of B. F. Mauser, located on E. Center St. At that time two men could handle the grocery business of the store.

Now They Save Everything

Whenever it is time again to think about the Declaration of Independence, a secondary thought intrudes itself.

Are the important documents of the future going to be handled better than they were handled in the past

Today, what happened to the Declaration of Independence could not happen because now they preserve all documents carefully in a separate department of archives. For more than a century, the Declaration was shuffled in and out of drawers, pigeonholes and boxes until by 1894 it was so faded and dog-eared it was almost worthless.

Beginning that year, both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution were given special care. Today, they are exhibited in cases filled with inert gas, and the cases are lowered into vaults each night. But there still is that question about important documents of the future.

When the time comes to look at historic documents from the 20th century during and after the 21st century, will anyone know where to find them among the millions of scraps of paper now filed away conscientiously each year in the federal archives

There is a discussion about the good old summertime that goes like this:

A says to B: Wouldn't it be wonderful if the good old summertime lasted all year—no more winter, no more spring, no more fall, just the good old summertime?

B replies to A: No, as a matter of fact, it wouldn't be wonderful at all. It would be a pain in the neck. I personally have all the good old summertime I can stand by the last week in September and am ready to go back to work.

A then retorts to B: I am not that fond of work, myself, but tastes differ. Things are pretty grim when the only way anyone can be made to feel like working is to live in a climate so disagreeable that people must work to forget their troubles.

Whereupon B makes this rejoinder to A: I did not say I work to forget my troubles. I work because I feel like working when the temperature drops and do not feel like working when it is high. If the good old summertime lasted too long, things would go to the dogs. It's variety in climate that's good for people.

And so on.

The discussion never gets anywhere, but it never stops. It's going strong again in 1954—now that the good old summertime is here again.

Help for Drug Addicts

The odds are against a proposal made before the American Medical Association to furnish low-cost drugs to addicts while encouraging them to overcome their habit. The moral problem involved is ticklish.

But the proposal would very nearly solve the two toughest problems of drug addiction.

The first is the problem of salvaging the addicts before they become public charges either through illness or the commission of crimes to obtain money to buy drugs.

The second is the problem of keeping the fantastic amounts of money which the dope habit yields out of the unscrupulous hands of the promoters of the dope trade.

Besides homegrown organizers of vice who prosper from dope peddling are the exporters of the opium which is the source of most drug addiction.

Nearly all opium in the dope trade is grown in Communist China, which has been shown by reliable testimony to be promoting drug addiction ruthlessly and systematically.

Any method for making low-cost drugs available to addicts while encouraging them to rehabilitate themselves would be a body blow at the primary source of income for the Communist conspiracy.

Production Meter

The Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production is the nearest thing in the economic world to a meter for measuring the volume of industrial output.

Its two-point rise during May has special significance because that is not what customarily happens to the index in May.

In 1952 there was a one-point fall. In 1953 there was only a one-point rise. A two-point rise in a year when there is widespread concern about which direction the industrial trend will take is one more of the signs Dr. Burns, the official White House economist was referring to a few days ago when he explained why he thinks the trend is in the right direction.

The index of industrial production is based on 1947-1949 as the base period, representing 100. The all-time peak production was reached in May last year and duplicated in July, after a slight dip in June; the index was 137 in those two high months a year ago.

After July, it fell month by month until it was down to 123 in March and April this year. It is starting to rise again now. If the expectation of a further rise is borne out by the index for June, it will be one more bit of evidence that an economic readjustment has been survived without severe effect.

New Washington Charter

By David Lawrence

Sincere, Bipartisan U.S. Foreign Policy Vital

Words, just words? Or basic principles of morality in the conduct of world affairs?

These are the two possible impressions which a cynic or an idealist, respectively, can derive from a reading of the joint statement by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill.

There is every reason to accept the words as a new "Washington Charter" and as an inspiring step along the difficult road of present-day relations between allies.

THEY CAN BE summarized thus:

1. America and Britain hold out the hand of friendship to all nations "which by solemn pledge and confirming deeds show themselves desirous of participating in a just and fair peace." This reaffirms the American position and, by the emphasis on "deeds," shows Soviet Russia the way to peace.

2. The principle of self - government is upheld and "colonialism" in its worst sense is repudiated, because Britain and America will strive only "by every peaceful means to secure the independence of all countries whose peoples desire and are capable of sustaining an independent existence."

What is the good of granting independence to nations not ready for it and which can become the prey of a Communist aggressor?

That's a question America has asked before but has never been so clearly answered as now.

3. America and Britain continue their support of the United Nations and of existing international organizations for common protection and security, and they "urge the establishment and maintenance of such associatinos of nations as will best, in their respective regions, preserve the peace and independence of the peoples living there."

This gives renewed endorsement to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the organization of American States. It also pronounces a blessing on associations like the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization that may be created in the future.

4. America a n d Britain will "with our friends" develop a n d maintain the spiritual, economic and military strength necessary to pursue the peaceful purposes and attain the objectives enumerated in the new charter. Every means will be sought to promote "t h e fuller and freer interchange among us (that is, among our allies) of goods and services which will benefit all participants."

THESE PRINCIPLES m i g h t perhaps be regrettably disregarded in the interest of national expediency some day but, having been written now explicitly and implicitly in the form of an American-British agreement at the highest level, they take on a solemnity which will not make easy in the future any violation of the pledges given.

The written communique tells of high purposes and reflects an atmosphere of cordiality and understanding. There remain differences of approach and emphasis.

Britain still feels inclined to deal with Red China but the so - called Locarno idea of a non - aggression pact is gone.

American spokesmen made it clear that the United States couldn't agree to what is called the "status quo" in the world — the confirmation of existing seizures or controls by Communist imperialism or upholding the jurisdiction of colonial powers in every case.

The President and Secretary Dulles took the sound position that America isn't ready to sign any treaty obligating this country either to fight a war to alter the existing order in any country or to fight a war to preserve that status.

This made a "non - aggression' pact wholly illogical, and there is evidence the British visitors in the end saw the matter the same way as do the American government officials.

TIME WILL TELL whether the renewed efforts by Britain at conciliating the Soviets will bear fruit. Meantime, it is essential that both political parties within the United States be united on foreign policy.

It is unfortunate that the Democratic leaders, who themselves engaged in a merciless attack on Secretary Dulles when he first came back from Geneva, now should complain when Vice President Nixon answers them in kind.

A glance back at the newspaper clippings will reveal that Truman, Acheson, Harriman, and certain senators and representatives l e t loose a partisan barrage at the very moment when the Indochina crisis was at its most delicate stage.

It is not surprising that v i c e President Nixon last Saturday in a political address pointed out that the troubles accumulated under the Democratic administration, starting with its withdrawal of moral support from Nationalist China at a critical moment which led to the loss of China and the ultimate buildup of Red China as the aggressor in Indochina.

Now that the partisans on each side have had their say, it is time to call quits and really make a sincere effort to carry on a bipartisan foreign policy.

Frying Pan Project Hot Colorado Issue

By Raymond Moley

GRANBY, Colo.

All Colorado is divided into at least two parts by great mountain ranges. Its people at the moment also are divided by a controversy of very serious proportions. It concerns water — a matter of life or death out here.

At present the major source of this controversy centers u p o n what is known as the Fryingpan-Arkansas transmountain diversion project.

This project is now before Congress for authorization. It has the blessing of the administration. It has been approved by the House committee. It may pass both Houses this session.

Briefly, the project would involve building a series of channels and tunnels high on the west slope of the Rockies, which would collect water from the headwaters of the Fryingpan, a tributary of the Roaring Fork, which flows into the Colorado at Glenwood Springs.

THE DIVERTED water would be p o u r e d into the Arkansas near Leadville and would pass through various power dams and into municipal w a t e r reservoirs and irrigation projects down the river.

I have discussed this project in these articles before, once three years ago in a piece written at Aspen. In the years since, there have been many new developments, some of which make it almost unbelieveable that this administration has taken up the battle for the plan.

In the hearings in 1953 there appeared a remarkably w e l l-informed witness against the project, John B. Barnard, an attorney in Granby. He appeared as the representative of p r o p e r t y owners and water users directly concerned on the western slope.

FOR MANY YEARS Barnard's practice has been in reclamation matters, and his arguments before the committee proved him to be one of the few Americans outside the government who is thoroughly conversant with reclamation and its implications.

I made it a point on this expedition among a number of reclamation projects in the West to talk with him about the Fryingpan matter and its broader consequences.

Barnard's major contentions concerning the Fryingpan project are That it ignores the future demands of a potentially great industrial development in Western Colorado,

That this project, with others of which it is the forerunner, would deplete the supply of water to which the west slope is entitled,

That it would supply water to the Arkansas River which t h a t river, if properly regulated, could supply for itself,

And, if I understand him correctly, the subsidy which it would supply to the lands irrigated in the Arkansas Valley would be unreasonable and unfair to the taxpayers of the nation.

Volumes could be written on this subject — volumes, I m a y add, which every taxpayer might well ponder — but I shall refer here to only one of Barnard's points and in another article discuss the others.

THE RICHEST and most extensive oil shale deposits in the United States are in Colorado, and at a point near Rifle a government pilot plant has been operating for some time.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines estimates that 100,000,000 barrels of shale oil can be produced from each square mile of the richer parts of the deposits, and that there are altogether 2,500 square miles in the shale area. That means possible mining operations for hundreds of years.

Great quantities of gas would be a by-product, and this and other available products would make possible a great chemical industry in the region, in addition to that which would extract and refine the oil.

It therefore becomes a matter of national importance whether such an industrial development should be endangered by a shortage of water, which would be placed at great cost on agricultural land, raising crops which will probably not be needed.

Moreover, as every newspaper reader knows, there have been found great deposits of uranium in the upper basin of the Colorado—running down from Rifle into Utah on the west and New Mexico on the south.

The industrial possibilities of this should be obvious.

Up to the Minute

By TRUMAN TWILL

Swiss watchmakers keep sending literature to this department, obviously in hope of making it understand why there should be no increase in the tariff on Swiss watches. That will be taken under advisement at some later time. After someone has told me more about reciprocity.

Right now, it is a matter of increasing significance to me that I still do not own a watch, although approaching the age when tradition says the faithful retainer should be given a watch to time his final slide down the nether slope.

This has been a matter of interest to me for the last 25 years—that in a society where nobody is anybody without a watch it has been possible to bluff things through without ever owning one in working order for more than a few months at a time.

The only two watches I ever possessed conked out after a few months of use and were put away in bureau drawers and never worn again or missed. Yet, somehow or other I have earned a reputation for punctuality and have lived a well ordered existence.

Moreover—and this is said with proper humility—I usually h a v e known what time it was, chronologically. This has been due not so much to a natural sense of time as to the ability to glance at a clock and to retain the information gained thereby.

One of the odd behaviorisms of people who own and use watches of their own is to look at them intently without retaining the information longer than is required to wonder what time it is again. If it is 8 p.m. at one instant, it is inevitably going to be a little after 8 p.m. a few instants later. Yet, a chronic timepiece looker w i l l look every minute from 8 to 8:30, if waiting for something to happen, and never seem to remember what his timepiece said the last time he looked at it.

It is possible to live satisfactorily in this country without a watch, leaving the ownership and care of these sensitive gadgets to those who enjoy owning them and paying for the upkeep. And that brings up something about timepieces which once was commented on here and should be commented on again, in the light of new developments.

On a previous occasion, it was pointed out that the clocks installed in automobiles as optional equipment never seemed to run much past the date for the payment of the fourth installment. S i n c e then, two auto clocks in two second-hand cars have made a liar out of me. Both kept perfect time while the automobiles to which they were attached were running. One performed almost flawlessly while the automobile was standing still. The other was not so good in these circumstances.

On occasions when electrical storms, high winds and skidding trucks cut off the electrical current which measures all the time in our household, these auto clocks were consulted to put the house clock back on the beam.

Someone has been making progress with auto clocks.

Maybe the Swiss watchmakers would like to know about this. It would be tactful to say nothing to them about not owning a watch in running order—Swiss, Peruvian, early American or any other kind. If word gets out that it is posible to live happily without owning a watch, it won't be just Swiss watchmakers who will be sending literature.

Sad Reports Inevitable

By MARK DANA

As holidays approach, it is customary for public officials, editors, speakers and others to step up their pleas for careful driving, and to remind that because of the natural exuberance of the holiday spirit and the increased number of cars on the highways, the dangers of accidents are multiplied.

Those familiar warnings have been voiced time after time, including the period just before the Fourth of July weekend. The exhortations will be repeated prior to the Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas periods, in phrases similar to those heard at Easter, Memorial Day and other special occasions.

Yet if tradition is upheld, three hundred or maybe five hundred, or more, persons over the U. S. will be reported during the next few days as having perished during the Independence Day outings, many from car accidents, some from drowning, others from other holiday mishaps.

A special tragedy about such death and injury tolls is that very often the persons hurt or killed have, indeed, resolved to be particularly careful, but have been the victims of carelessness by others. It is not true that reckless drivers invariably bump themselves off; it is when they themselves escape injury after causing disaster to others that resentment soars.

Thus, as sad reports following the "glorious Fourth" come in, they will tell of many drivers who truly were particularly cautious but, with their passengers, suffered because other drivers were inconsiderate. The periodic pleas and warnings somehow are ignored by the very persons who should heed them, and the fearful highway slaughter which every year wipes out the equivalent of a fairly large city will not be abated until both law and public opinion keep incurably reckless persons from driving at all.

Truman's gall bladder and appendix were removed June 20. Secondary infections and unfavorable reaction to drugs gave him a temporary setback a week after the operation and for a time his condition was critical.

Truck Runs Off Road in County

Driver Falls Asleep, Vehicle Strikes Trees

A truck driver fell asleep at the wheel last night and his truck ran off the road in the only accident reported in Marion County by state patrolmen from the Marion post. City police reported one accident with damage amounting to less than $100.

At 11:30 p.m. Thursday, Herbert Hutchison, 20, of North Wilkesboro, N. C. fell asleep at the wheel of his truck as he was traveling west on U. S. Route 30-S just east of Meeker.

The truck ran off the right side of the road, knocking down a mailbox and smashing into the two trees, all owned by John Alexander of near Marion.

Hutchison was uninjured, but the front end and right side of his truck were extensively damaged.

Dr. Stengel Gives Optical Instrument Collection to OSU

A gift of his entire collection of optical instruments and supplies has been made to Ohio State University by Dr. F. A. Stengel, Marion optometrist and well-known hobbyist.

Dr. Glen Frye of the university came to Marion Thursday to receive the collection which will be housed in the optometric building on the campus and will be placed on display within a few days.

The valuable collection of more than 60 pieces tells the story of the evolution of optical instruments covering a period of more than 160 years and includes instruments used in those early days for the fitting of glasses down to today's modern equipment. One of the oldest pieces in the collection dates back to 1789.

Doctors Say Truman's Recovery To Be Slow

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Former President Truman's recovery from his illness apparently will be a slow process.

In the latest report on his recuperation, a Research Hospital spokesman said last night he was "progressing well but slowly." The spokesman added that his doctors agree that with such a devastating illness he cannot be expected to respond quickly.

Truman's gall bladder and appendix were removed June 20. Secondary infections and unfavorable reaction to drugs gave him a temporary setback a week after the operation and for a time his condition was critical.

Truck Runs Off Road in County

Driver Falls Asleep, Vehicle Strikes Trees

A truck driver fell asleep at the wheel last night and his truck ran off the road in the only accident reported in Marion County by state patrolmen from the Marion post. City police reported one accident with damage amounting to less than $100.

At 11:30 p.m. Thursday, Herbert Hutchison, 20, of North Wilkesboro, N. C. fell asleep at the wheel of his truck as he was traveling west on U. S. Route 30-S just east of Meeker.

The truck ran off the right side of the road, knocking down a mailbox and smashing into the two trees, all owned by John Alexander of near Marion.

Hutchison was uninjured, but the front end and right side of his truck were extensively damaged.

Dr. Stengel Gives Optical Instrument Collection to OSU

A gift of his entire collection of optical instruments and supplies has been made to Ohio State University by Dr. F. A. Stengel, Marion optometrist and well-known hobbyist.

Dr. Glen Frye of the university came to Marion Thursday to receive the collection which will be housed in the optometric building on the campus and will be placed on display within a few days.

The valuable collection of more than 60 pieces tells the story of the evolution of optical instruments covering a period of more than 160 years and includes instruments used in those early days for the fitting of glasses down to today's modern equipment. One of the oldest pieces in the collection dates back to 1789.

The United States has more than 25,000,000 acres of farm land under irrigation.
